FRANCE.

A Compromise on the Orleans Question—Loan to Paris by the Insurrection—No Moratorium—Italy to Surrender Communists.

VERSAILLES, June 7.—The Vérité says that a compromise has been effected by which the law exiling the ORLEANS Princes from France will be repealed, and their election to the Assembly be declared valid. The Princes are, however, not to take the seats to which they have been chosen, and must agree not to intrigue for the throne. It is said that M. THIERS has given his consent to this plan. That journal also estimates the damage to Paris from the fighting and conflagration at 800,000,000 of francs. It is said that 60,000,000 of francs' worth of merchandise were burned, exclusive of the Docks de la Villette and warehouse. The Council of Hygiene of Paris declares that there is no epidemic in the city; and that such precautionary measures have been adopted as will prevent the spread of any disease to such an extent. They also state that the health of Paris is at present satisfactory. The Figaro proposes the re-establishment of the gaming-houses and lotteries, as an attraction for strangers to Paris. It also favors the abolition of passports, and the law against strikes. The Official Journal of today contains a note from the Italian Minister of Foreign Affairs, guaranteeing to deliver into the hands of the French authorities all escaping insurgents who may reach Italian soil.

Terrible Accident Near Paris—Twenty-Five Women Killed and Fifty Injured—The Vendome Column—The Communist Prisoners.

VERSAILLES, June 7.—The municipal election at Marseilles and Tarascon have been declared void. Twenty-five women were killed and fifty injured by a railway accident near Paris yesterday. All the pieces of the Column of Vendome have been found, and that monument of the military glory of France will be exactly restored. M. PICARD has been appointed Governor of the Bank of France. M. ROTUNDE has been appointed Procurer-General. A report of disturbances in Lyons is false. The trial of those of the Communist leaders held here as prisoners will commence at once.

Funeral of the Late Archbishop of Paris.

PARIS, June 7.—The obsequies of the late Archbishop DARBOY took place today at the Cathedral of Notre Dame with great pomp. They were attended by a large number of political, military and literary celebrities, and a deputation from the National Assembly. The church was crowded, and the throngs of spectators on the line of the funeral procession were immense.

The funeral ceremonies, today, over the remains of the five clerical victims of the Commune, were solemn and impressive. Notre Dame was grandly arrayed. The central object in the solemn pomp was a gorgeous catafalque, containing the remains of the Archbishop, surrounded by minor structures, bearing the corpses of DUGUERRY, the curé of the Madelaine; SURET, the Grand Vicar of the Diocese; BECOURT and SABATIER. The coffin of the Archbishop was covered with a pall of black velvet, embroidered, and enriched with a massive silver cross. Thousands of tapers were burning in silver candelabra, and the incense vessels were also silver. The floor was covered with black cloth, and the pulpit was covered with black gauze bespangled with silver stars. The transepts, 150 feet wide, appeared huge recesses of black drapery, which covered every statue except those of the Virgin and child and St. Denis, the first Bishop of Paris. In the midst of all were the black and charred remains of the Bishop's chair, and his throne, also half burned, with which the Communists endeavored to burn the Cathedral was left intact as a memento of the crime. The weather was dull. Along the route of procession the windows and streets were crammed with spectators. The bells were tolling. A salute of guns was fired. A strong force of regulars, with reversed arms and muffled drums were in the procession. The funeral-car of the Archbishop was covered with silver, and was drawn by six horses. Another beautiful car containing the remains of SURET followed. The procession reached the Cathedral at 11 o'clock. Inside, the church was crowded with members of the Assembly, priests and Sisters of Charity. At 11 o'clock the priests' deputies, with military music, left the chancel, and proceeded to the great doors, which were draped in black, to meet the coffins. The chanting then commenced, and outside were heard the beating of drums, the pealing of trumpets and the roaring of cannon. At the Elevation of the Host the firing was repeated. The altar was magnificently decorated, and the service was long and solemn. MaMahon, Drusy, Vinoy, L'Admirault and Favre were present.

GENERAL EUROPEAN NEWS.

The Spanish Budget—The German Parliament—Von Moltke—The French Charge d'Affaires.

MADRID, June 7.—The Committee of the Cortes on the Budget today discussed the advisability of postponing the loan until the Budget is adopted. Minister MORET opposed any postponement, and declared that he should make it a Cabinet question. The Committee then rejected the proposal to postpone the loan by a vote of 16 to 3.

BERLIN, June 7.—The session of the German Parliament will probably close on the 15th inst., but the members will remain in the city to take part in the ceremonies attending the triumphal entry of the army. Gen. VON MOLTKE has returned from a visit to Strasburg, and has since had an audience wish the Emperor. The Prussian Cross Gazette confirms the report that France will shortly send a Chargé d'Affaires to Berlin, but mentions no name.

AFFAIRS IN ENGLAND.

Effect of the Disorders in Paris—English Sympathy—Its Expression in Parliament—Refugees and the Extradition Treaty—Prospects of the Government—The Lords and the Treaty—An Elastic Constitution.

From Our Own Correspondent.

LONDON, Saturday, May 27, 1871.

Of course the public is very much shocked at the wanton and wicked devastation of the finest of modern capitals by the savages of the Commune. It is felt as quite a personal injury by the large class who have of late years come to regard Paris as a pleasant playground. You had an early breakfast in London and a late dinner in Paris, and found yourself in this easy way transferred to a city where all the accustomed pleasures and relishes of life were at hand, while at the same time the difference of climate, language, appearance of the streets had all the charm of novelty just as much as if one had landed in the East. When shall we see this Paris again, we ask mournfully—will it be ever? As for the public buildings that are gone, I don't think they are any great loss. The Tuileries had a history which makes one regret it, but the part of the Louvre which has been burned down was all new; only a few years old, and in tawdry bad taste. The Sainte Chapelle seems to have suffered little, Notre Dame is safe, the Pantheon and the old part of the Conciergerie are all right—so that I cannot join in what seem to be the exaggerated lamentations about the architectural ruin of Paris. It is the physical misery, the moral desolation of the once gay and glittering city, over which I mourn. It must be years before even the lightest-hearted population recovers from the shock of two such sieges.

ENGLISH SYMPATHY.

On Thursday evening, Sir ROBERT PEEL entreated Mr. GLADSTONE and Mr. DISRAELI, as the two leaders of the House of Commons, to get up instantly and move an address of sympathy with the French people. Mr. GLADSTONE excused himself, one of his reasons being that he could not find epithets strong enough to express his feelings, and Mr. DISRAELI remained mute. Had either of the leaders fallen in with the suggestion, a troublesome precedent would have been established. The Communists have, no doubt, behaved atrociously, but it is just as well to keep one's breath, as the Scotch proverb says, to cool the porridge. For what happened, the weak fury of Versailles is as much responsible as the desperate brutality of the Commune. The feeling here runs so strongly against the Commune, that I am almost afraid we may be betrayed into some silly manifestation of partisanship. Mr. WHALLEY, a kind of tom-fool in the House of Commons, who amuses the assembly by wild ultra-Protestant speeches, detecting the Jesuits in everything that does not turn out exactly to his wishes, was groaned down when he intimated that he had been in communication with the Communal authorities. Moreover a disposition is visible to exclude any refugees of this class from English soil. When questioned by Lord ELCHO last night, the Home Secretary replied very sensibly that political offenders did not come within the Extradition Treaty, and that it would be for the French Government to prove that any refugees from Paris were criminals who could be claimed under that compact. The offer of the Fire Brigade of Louden to help in subduing the conflagration has been well received in Paris, but it has not been found necessary to accept it.

PROSPECTS OF THE GOVERNMENT.

There can be no doubt now that the Government will pull through the session safely, and even triumphantly. They have thrown everything overboard except the abolition of purchase in the army, the ballot, and the removal of theological tests at the Universities. The last of these is practically carried, for Lord SALISBURY and his majority in the Upper House, after the desertion of the Bishops, must give way. As for the Army bill, the House of Commons is still making faces over the third clause, and the Ballot bill has not yet been read a second time. But the Government have only to adhere to their determination that these measures must be passed, and it will be done for the simple reason that, if defeated in the House they would at once dissolve, and everybody knows that they could not have a better cry for a general election than the ballot and abolition of purchase. The opposition dare not go to the country on two such issues, and have no other good "platform" available for their own use. The Government have certainly put themselves in the wrong as regards the increase of the income tax in order to pay the whole additional expenditure of the year; but even there they cannot be hopefully attacked on the hustings. The working classes, now the majority of voters, naturally favor a tax which they do not themselves pay; and the country gentlemen, although they pay income tax, are well content to do so, since it tends to keep taxation off land and accumulate it on personal property. The struggling middle classes, who bear the chief burden of the income tax, may be, as Mr. DISRAELI says, an ornament to English civilization; but their "decorum" is not of much account at the elections. The Government are therefore pretty sure to have their own way; but it is not improbable that they will have to modify the Army bill so far as to pay back the regulation price of commissions to all officers at once, instead of paying it only on retirement from the army.

THE HOUSE OF LORDS AND THE TREATY.

From the very positive way in which some people speak of the British Constitution, one would imagine that it was something kept in a box, like a standard measure, and could be produced at any moment for verification. The other night there was a dispute in the House of Lords about an important constitutional rule, and though the highest authorities differed, they were all as confident as if they had seen and handled the Constitution and knew where to go and have another look at it whenever they liked. Of course, if it had been the American Constitution, there would have been some excuse for it; but the British Constitution is nowhere to be found set forth in plain black and white. It has been the subject of many documents in its time, but its essential principle is that it can never be tied down in this way, and that it is always adapting itself to the changed circumstances and necessities of the times. Proof that it was once so and so, is no proof that it is so now. The Constitution is, in fact, something evolved from the moral consciousness of the nation, and those who desire to study the process of development in actual operation should watch such debates as that in the House of Lords on the question of the ratification of treaties which was raised in relation to the Anglo-American Treaty. Lord RUSSELL insisted that, when notice of opposition to a treaty had been given in Parliament, its ratification should be postponed until the matter had been settled. Lord GRANVILLE, supported by Lord GREY and Lord CAIRNS, maintained, on the other hand, that the right of ratification was absolute in the Crown, quite irrespective of Parliament, which could punish the Government who made a treaty it did not like, but could not arrest its ratification, or, of its own authority, annul it when ratified. The controversy was mainly one of words, and both disputants were right and both wrong. Lord GRANVILLE was undoubtedly right in asserting the prerogative of the Crown, but Lord RUSSELL was also right in insisting upon the paramount authority of Parliament. Nowadays it is only with due regard to the latter that this or any other prerogative can be exercised. It is perfectly clear that the final decision rests with Parliament, which, if it disapproves a treaty can turn out one Ministry after another until it gets the obnoxious compact canceled. Consequently, no Government in its senses would think of concluding a treaty if there were reasonable ground for anticipating that it would not be acceptable to Parliament. It is just the same with a declaration of war. The Crown has here also an absolute prerogative, and could at any moment plunge the country into war; but then it would be liable to be pulled up short as soon as it required funds to carry on hostilities. In point of fact, there are physical reasons why the American treaty cannot be ratified before the 12th of June, when Lord RUSSELL's motion comes on, so that there was no practical question at issue; but if there had been, there can be no doubt that the Government would have had to give way. At the same time there is a great deal of truth in Lord GREY's remark that a large legislative assembly is not the sort of body which can usefully engage in diplomatic work. The days of secret diplomacy are not yet over, but it is necessary that it should be understood that in such a case the Government is acting entirely on its own responsibility, and that practically Parliament can repudiate any arrangement which it disapproves. But Parliament means rather the House of Commons than the House of Lords, since the latter would only imperil its existence in attempting to thwart the Government and a majority of the Commons on such a question. It is becoming more and more certain that Lord RUSSELL's motion will not be carried. F. J. H.

WEST POINT.

Movements of President Grant—Mlle. Nilsson's Concert—A Storm—An Accident on the Hudson River Railroad.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WEST POINT, June 7.—Today President GRANT and suite were present at cavalry exercise and at the examination of the graduates in ordnance drill. This evening, mortar exercises were to be conducted on the grounds of the Academy, but, in consequence of a severe rainstorm, which has continued since 6 o'clock, it was unavoidably postponed. At 8 o'clock, Mlle. NILSSON sang a number of operatic airs in the mess-room, in presence of the President, the Board of Visitors and the principal officers of the Academic staff, not forgetting the cadets. It is expected that Gen. GRANT will remain here until Monday or Tuesday next, when Gen. SHERMAN, who is to bestow the diplomas, will arrive. The examinations are to be resumed to-morrow morning at 9½ o'clock, and later in the day a battalion review and mortar exercise will be conducted in honor of the President.

The hotels are crowded with a number of distinguished officers of the army, including Gens. McDOWELL, VODGES, STRONG, and Secretary BELKNAP.

The 5 o'clock train which left the Hudson River Railroad Depot last evening met with a slight accident, which, though unattended with any serious consequences, created considerable excitement among the passengers.

When within a few miles of Tarrytown the coupling-iron connecting the engine with the carriages broke, and the engine ran ahead nearly a quarter of a mile before it could be stopped. The passengers were very much alarmed, and a few attempted to jump off the train. After about twenty minutes' delay the accident was remedied, and the train continued on its course.

The ships will proceed immediately to Halifax, and from there they make a cruise along the entire Atlantic coast.

Explosion of an Oil Refinery—One Man Killed.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 7.—The agitating-house of ALEXANDER SOCFIELD & Co.'s oil refinery exploded this morning. The agitating-house, with 1,100 barrels of oil and the company's office, were destroyed by fire. ADAM KERR, an employe, was instantly killed. Three others were seriously burned. Loss, $30,000. No insurance. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

Singular Democratic Victory in a Republican State.

The State Legislature Organized—Election of a Democratic Speaker by a Rare Majority—A Governor to be Selected Today.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

CONCORD, N. H., June 7.—The Democrats have succeeded, as was intimated in my dispatch of last night, with the aid of those renegade Republicans who train with the self-styled Labor Reformers, in electing their Speaker in the House, and have shown the majority, trifling, but sufficient, which will make a Democratic Governor for the State. New-Hampshire must, therefore, be classed as Democratic, though it is, so far as a majority of its voters are concerned, largely Republican. The day's proceedings in the Legislature have been exciting, and been watched by a packed house, crowds of people having come into town by the morning trains. The interest has centred in the House, the Senate on account of its peculiar position, having done nothing beyond effecting a temporary organization. When the hour of meeting arrived, it was found that every member-elect save the two Republicans previously reported ill, was in his seat. In the preliminary work a plan agreed upon by the leaders of the parties was followed, and consequently there was little delay and no wrangling. After the credentials had been properly examined, Gov. STEARNS administered the oath of office to the members elect, and then Judge NESMITH, of Franklin, Republican, was made temporary Speaker. According to the arrangement of last night, the Clerk called the roll as made up from the reports of town clerks, and each member passed up to the Speaker's desk and deposited his ballot for Speaker, in the box held by Judge NESMITH. The process was tedious but satisfying, as no charge of fraud could be brought against it. The result was announced as follows: Whole number of ballots, 326; necessary for a choice, 164; JAMES O. ADAMS, of Manchester, Republican, 162; WILLIAM A. GOVE, of Ware, Democrat and Labor Reform, 164. The announcement was received with tremendous cheering and wild shouting. Such a burst of pent-up Democratic joy has not been witnessed here for sixteen years, and for that reason, perhaps, not the slightest effort was made by the presiding officers to stay it. Mr. GOVE, the elected Speaker, until recently a stanch Republican, and formerly one of the most radical of radicals and bitter opponent of the principles and policy of the Democrats, now a Democratic office-holder, let it be remembered, on taking the chair, made the customary speech of acceptance. It was short, and contained only a few words of any moment. These were as follows:

"And, gentlemen, if the Legislature of New-Hampshire now assembled should see fit, in its wisdom, to place on record the opinions of the people of the State in relation to matters of broader significance and more general interest than affairs confined to our own State, I know that the voice of New-Hampshire will receive that consideration in the councils of the nation to which she is entitled, standing as she does second to none in the love of constitutional liberty and in the loyalty to the whole Union."

At the conclusion of his speech the House took a recess. This afternoon proceedings have been more exciting and less harmonious than this forenoon. The business was the further organization of the House by the choice of clerks. The Republicans feeling that they might after all prevent the complete success of the Democracy have made a strong fight. The Democrats have tried to elect their men by a resolution, and the Republicans have sought the election of clerks by ballot. Various ways and tactics have been tested by both, and the consequence is that the yeas and nays have been called a dozen times, several gentlemen have lost their temper, and the House has at times been in great confusion. No vote on the main question was reached up to the time the House adjourned. To-morrow an effort will be made to secure the organization of the Senate to elect a Governor. The vacancies in the Senate will doubtless be filled by Democrats, and JAMES A. WESTON, of Manchester, the Democratic candidate, be chosen Governor by a majority of five or six. Several Republicans, now that the Speakership is Democratic, intend to give their ballots to him. The Democrats are much elated over their success, and are noisily congratulating each other in the crowded corridors of the hotels.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

CONCORD, June 7.—In the House, Mr. BINGHAM, of Littleton, offered a resolution declaring JAMES R. JACKSON, of Littleton, Clerk and J. H. COLBATH, of Barnstead, Assistant, and on it called the yeas and nays. Mr. FOWLER, of Concord, offered an amendment that the House proceed by ballot to the election of Clerk. The yeas were 161 and the nays 160. The Speaker claimed the privilege of voting, and so tied the vote, and the amendment was lost. An exciting debate followed, during which various amendments and motions to adjourn were offered. Questions of order were raised, and appeals from the decision of the Chair made; but the House finally adjourned without action on the resolution. The Senate did nothing more than to elect Senator CAMPBELL as temporary Chairman, and appoint a committee to examine the vote for Senators. Both parties will hold caucuses to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock.

THE HEBREWS.

Proceedings of the Rabbinical Conference in Cincinnati—The Prayer-Book and Seminaries.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 7.—In the Rabbinical Conference today the Prayer-book Committee was authorized to publish the book immediately after the conclusion of their labor. A communication that the congregation at Charlottesville, Va., had joined the reformers was received with applause. A resolution was adopted, providing for uniform reading from the Pentateuch during the period of three years at divine service, selecting such portions as are best adapted to spiritual wants, omitting antiquated laws. A resolution was also adopted protesting against the establishment of a national Rabbinical office at Washington. The report of the Committee on Seminaries recommends that the seminary should commence its course of instruction on the basis of the knowedge of the students of Hebrew, so that Freshmen must be acquainted with Hebrew grammar, and be able to translate prose chapters from the Bible. In four years the student is expected to acquire a thorough knowledge of the original sources of Hebrew and Rabbinical literature. The report will be considered to-morrow.

The Printer's Convention—Business Resumed Yesterday.

BALTIMORE, June 7.—The International Typographical Union met at 9 o'clock this morning. Several Committees reported. A number of resolutions were presented, among which were adopted: One admitting pressmen to membership in the Unions; also that the jurisdiction of the subordinate Unions shall extend half way to the next International Union; also, leaving to the subordinate Unions the regulation of the apprenticeship system. A motion to take from the table the resolution offered on Monday last, to allow colored printers the rights of membership in the Unions, was defeated by a vote of 44 to 17. A resolution was adopted recommending arbitration instead of strikes for the settlement of disputes. Richmond, Va., was chosen as the place for the next annual meeting. The Convention then went into secret session.

THE WASHINGTON STRIKES.

Determined Action of Gov. Cooke—The Georgetown Coal Men on a Strike—Fighting on the Wharves—Arrests by the Police.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The strike of the negro laborers still continues. They have had thus far pretty soft treatment, and it does not avail. Gov. COOKE has been active in trying to effect a compromise on $1 50 per day, and the contractors, it is said, are willing to pay that. Plenty of men are glad to get work at that rate now, if the mob would permit them to labor undisturbed. It appears from the following announcement in the Star that the compromise policy is about to end:

"We understand that Gov. COOKE and the Board of Public Works have notified the contractors to proceed with their work, and have taken all the requisite measures to protect the laborers from mob interference. The Board have suggested that $1 50 per day would be a fair compromise between the price heretofore paid and that asked by the strikers, and it is probable that the contractors will put the men at work at that price. The authorities will see to it that the laborers are fully protected from molestation, whatever may be the price agreed upon between them and the contractors."

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The colored laborers were gathered in various places in small groups today, with apparently a less aggressive spirit than yesterday. A number of the strikers are anxious to resume work, but fear violence. The Board of Public Works with Gov. COOKE at their head, have decided that $1 50 a day is as much as the tax-payers can afford to give, and as little as the laborers can afford to take. The Board, yesterday, recommended the contractors to suspend work for fear of violence, but now promise to protect the just interests of all, and will not yield to violence or countenance any attempt to intimidate or interfere with honest laborers by mobs or gangs of armed men. The Police hold themselves in readiness to move in any direction in case disturbances shall be caused by the colored strikers. The local Government here is acting with moderation and firmness in the present difficulties, and while doing nothing to precipitate a collision between the contractors on the improvements and the laborers, it has advised the latter that all attempts to interfere with those engaged upon the public works will be put down. It is expected that work will be resumed to-morrow, and measures have been taken to protect the laborers thereon should it become necessary.

STRIKE AND RIOT IN GEORGETOWN.

There is also a strike in Georgetown. Letters received today by the different coal agents show the companies are also determined to hold out, and the principal agents have been ordered to send all their cargoes to Alexandria, Va., hereafter, and no more coal will be shipped from Cumberland to Georgetown by canal for the present. The merchants and others already commence to feel the strike, as not only canal-boats but a large number of vessels expended a considerable amount of cash there daily. Fighting took place this afternoon at the coal wharves, between the strikers and the men at work. The Police arrested some of the rioters and promptly suppressed the disturbance.

The disturbance in Georgetown this afternoon was caused by a party of colored strikers, who went on board a schooner lying at the Borden Coal and Mining Company's wharf and molested upon the hands, discharging the coal, who were employed by the Captain of the schooner, stopping work, unless the price of $2 per day for eight hours' labor was paid them. They threatened violence, and the Captain of the schooner solicited the aid of the Police, who promptly responded and arrested Peter THOMPSON and THOMAS BROMLEY, the ringleaders, and three others, all colored. They were lodged in the Station-house. There was no fighting. The arrest of the ringleaders ended the demonstration.

Barometer corrected for elevation and temperature.

Synopsis and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, June 8—1½ A. M.—The weather is not materially changed at the Pacific and Rocky Mountain stations. Clear and partially cloudy weather has prevailed, so far as heard from, during the day, from the Blue Ridge westward to the Rocky Mountains. The area of cloud and rain has moved from Ohio and Lake Ontario eastward, and now extends along the immediate coast from the Chesapeake Bay to Maine. The barometer has risen decidedly from the Gulf to the Lakes and from Virginia westward to Kansas. The temperature has generally fallen north and west of the Ohio River, with westerly winds. Fresh easterly winds, veering to the south-west, have prevailed on the East Atlantic, and are now rapidly diminishing.

PROBABILITIES.

Partially cloudy and clear weather are probable for Thursday over a greater portion of the country east of the Mississippi River, with light westerly winds north of the Ohio, and cooler weather from Wisconsin eastward. A small area of rainy weather is probable for Northern Michigan and Lake Huron. The rain-storm will probably entirely clear away to-night in the Middle and Eastern States.

AUGUSTA, Ga., June 7.—A heavy rain-storm prevails here this evening.

The New-Orleans Flood—Pumping the Water Back.

NEW-ORLEANS, June 7.—Engineers estimate the volume of water in the flooded district at 1,100,000,000 of gallons. The drainage-machine is pumping 1,000,000 gallons an hour, and to-morrow the marine pump, of equal capacity, will go to work. It will take more than a month to get rid of the water. Great distress continues. A flotilla of boats is supplying provisions to people in the submerged district, who mostly refuse to leave their houses.

There was a strong south-east wind, with rain, on Lake Pontchartrain this evening. The water in the city has fallen two inches in the past twenty-four hours, and is now three inches below high-water mark. The neutral ground, on Canal-street, is clear of water nearly to Claiborne-street. Besides the police and charity boats, there are hundreds of small craft engaged in passenger traffic, and are as thick around the neutral grounds on Canal-street as vehicles at a race-course, and boatmen are as solicitous for patronage as depot drummers. The boats are required to carry lights, and after dark the spectacle attracts many people to view it. Five thousand loaves of bread, and other articles in proportion, are distributed daily. A disagreeable odor arises all along the border of the overflowed district, from the stagnant water and decaying vegetable and animal matter.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE LIFE OF JOHN MILTON. Narrated in connection with the Political, Ecclesiastical and Literary History of His Time. By DAVID MASSON, M. A., LL. D. Vol. II. 1638-1643. London and New-York: MACMILLAN & Co.

It is now many years since the first volume of Mr. MASSON's Life of Milton made its appearance, and the public had almost given up looking for the second; but it has come at last, and will amply reward the patient waiting of the reader. Plenty of brief biographies of MILTON have been published, both before and since Mr. MASSON undertook his arduous task of writing the life of the great poet, according to the only satisfactory plan, that is in connection with a record of contemporary history. These books have in no degree lessened the necessity for a work of this sort, for MILTON's life and writings were so intimately connected with the public events of his day, that it is impossible to acquire a complete knowledge and appreciation of the one without, at the same time, carefully studying the other. To trace such a man, living in such an age, through all his relations to the politics, religion and literature of the time, and make those relations clear to the volume reader by setting forth the political, religious and literary history of that time in concise and lucid form, was a task requiring the highest ability, industry, and care; and in none of these qualities has Dr. MASSON been found wanting. Wherever it was necessary to make original researches, as was very frequently the case, they have been made with the utmost fidelity and thoroughness, and this book will form so unimportant contribution to the history of England during its most instructive era. It was the amount of research required for the work, and the faithfulness with which it has been made, that so long delayed the appearance of the volume, and no one will have reason to regret that he was kept waiting. The period covered by this second volume is that of the rebellion against CHARLES I., and the rule of the Long Parliament, when MILTON was intensely interested in the great events which were taking place about him, and wrote numerous political and theological pamphlets bearing directly upon them. It involves not only a history of the Presbyterian revolt in Scotland, the reign of the Long Parliament, and the first part of the civil war, but an account of the rise and growth of the sects of the Presbyterians and Independents, which constitutes an important chapter in Church history. Of the style of the book it is unnecessary to speak at this late day, for the first volume has long been familiar to admirers of the great epic poet of England. The announcement that the third volume is already in press is encouraging, and gives hope of the early completion of one of the best and most important biographies in the English language.

GABRIELLE ANDRE. An historical novel. By S. BARING GOULD, M. A. New-York: D. APPLETON & CO. 1871.

The history of civil war in France has repeated itself in an almost incredibly short time, and in showing the ecclesiastical side of the French revolution, Mr. GOULD renders no small service to those who are willing to look beyond exterior circumstances for the causes of those social upheavings to which France has been subject, when wearied with pleasure and morally exhausted by excess. The prominent character in this book is Thomas Lindet, the parish priest of Bernay, whose story awakens deep interest, not only on account of his intrinsic goodness, but because of the courage which prompted him to give utterance to the first faint whispers of that inexorable demand for change which burst forth so clamorously toward the close of the last century. His notions of religious tolerance were extraordinary for that day, and are not without their instruction for this. The form of the novel has been selected by Mr. GOULD, because it affords him more scope for the illustration of public feeling in France during the early period of the first revolution; but his incidents are true to history. Recent events have shown that the conduct of the people of Paris differs little from that of their forefathers, and in comparing some of the scenes described in this story with those lately reported, we shall find that advanced civilization has brought as little improvement to the females of the lower-class Parisians as among the men.

THE CORRECT ORDER OF FUNDAMENTAL HARMONIES. From the German of S. SECHTER. Compiled and adapted for popular use by C. C. MUELLER. New-York: W. A. POND & CO. 1871.

Mr. C. C. MUELLER, a well-known Professor of Harmony, has just given to the public an adaptation of S. SECHTER's treatise on Fundamental Bases and Their Inversions and Substitutes, under the leading title of The Correct Order of Fundamental Harmonies. Mr. MUELLER has not only done creditable work in placing SECHTER's system before the American student, but he has accomplished a task of special moment in wholly recasting the book. M. TAINE, in an essay on ancient Greek art, founded mainly on German sources, expressed the belief that to bring much of the literature of Germany within the grasp of the foreign intellect, it was necessary to re-think preparatory to refashioning it. To how slight an extent this has been effected in the miscellaneous writings in harmony—mainly translated, be it said—the puzzled scholar can testify. Mr. MUELLER's volume, then, will doubtless be heartily welcomed, not merely because of the high authority of its now-promulgated rules, but particularly by reason of the exceeding clearness of its definitions, which make it a popular treatise in the right sense of the word. The discussion of the subject, we may add, is divided into six parts, referring respectively to harmonic progressions in the major and in the minor scale, to diatonic modulation, to chromatic progressions in the two modes, and to enharmonic changes. The typographical appearance of the book, which is issued by POND & CO., is unusually handsome.

MORFORD'S SHORT TRIP GUIDE TO EUROPE. By HENRY MORFORD. New-York: SHELDON & CO. 1871.

In a simple and lucid manner Mr. MORFORD imparts to his traveling countrymen a considerable amount of practical information. The present troubled state of Europe and the changes which have taken place since the first edition of this little guide was issued, have led its author to make important alterations and additions. It is no easy task to provide for the needs of persons of all classes who wish to see Europe in a short time, and to get the worth of their money, but Mr. MORFORD has spared no pains to render his instructions complete. He has aimed to produce a guide which may be found in all respects trustworthy, and the many who avail themselves of his labors will acknowledge that he has accomplished his design with considerable success.

ILLINOIS.

The German Peace Festival in Chicago—Decoration Day—Legislative Matters—Miscellaneous Gossip.

From Our Own Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Tuesday, May 30, 1871.

I shall not attempt to give you an account of the great German demonstration on Monday, for the telegraph is in my way, and has already brought you all that is necessary for the New-York public to know. It was a grand success, and altogether indescribable, as it was composed of a little of everything that could be got into ten miles of streets. Germany was out in all its glory—not only Germany of the present, but of the past. The principal interest there was in any portion of it was the historical representations of the progress of the Germanic or Teuton race, from the time they first appeared upon the stage, savages, clothed in skins of wild beasts, down to the present time. As a whole, the thing was pretty well done, and must have cost an immense sum. The entire expense has been estimated as high as two hundred thousand dollars.

We suppose the "peace" part of these demonstrations mean simply the stupendous victory achieved by Germany over France. If the war had closed with Berlin in ruins, instead of Paris, it is highly probable that our Teutonic fellow-citizens would have remained quietly at home. And the affair is rather anomalous, to say the least of it. Here are these republican, liberty-loving Germans rejoicing to the top of their bent over the triumph of imperialism, and over events which give to Kingship the power to crush out the liberties of the people, if imperial WILLIAM shall see fit to use it. BISMARCK is no Republican—not much of a friend of popular liberty, and here are the very reds of republicanism glorifying him as though he were the best friend of the people's rights in the world.

Decoration Day followed. It was not so largely participated in by our citizens as in previous years, but there was a respectable turn out, especially at the Rosehill Cemetery, where a handsome monument, erected to the memory of Gen. RANSOM, was unveiled. The American people are not noted for their perseverance in following out a sentiment, and Decoration Day will gradually fall into disuse. One thing which makes it somewhat distasteful to many is the fact that the Generals and Colonels who have been running for office on the strength of their shoulder-straps ever since the war, put themselves at the head of the decorating parties. It has the appearance of an effort to keep themselves before the people, and making popularity for themselves by working upon and through the public sympathy with the memory of our fallen heroes.

Our State Legislature is continuing the old quarrel about the State-house. The Springfield interest appears to have strengthened itself in some way since the adjournment. By some sort of appliance the Chicago Tribune has been made to turn a sharp corner, and it now favors the Springfield interest, which it bitterly opposed during the regular session. It is supposed that the new bill for taxing our people $300,000 a year for the benefit of outside speculators in park lands, has something to do with the summersault. If the State House Appropriation bill passes, it is expected the Park bills will also pass, and by the same votes. Legislation in this country has got to be a species of gambling to an extent which is truly appalling.

The most acceptable piece of information which has recently been promulgated from Springfield, is contained in the report of Mr. WARNEKUK, the Warden and General Superintendent of the Penitentiary. He has brought order out of chaos, and by his good management has made the institution not only pay its expenses since last December, but has had surplus funds to apply on the large indebtedness which accrued under the administration of his predecessors. This will be good news to the people of the State, as they had begun to despair of ever obtaining relief from the taxation which the penitentiary threatened to impose. In two years it had rolled up a debt of $300,000, with a prospect under the old management of an annual large increase. But it appears the leak has been stopped, and that the State has found a man who can work its fourteen hundred prisoners without loss.

In speaking of Penitentiary matters, I am reminded of the death of Hon. SAMUEL K. CARRY, a member of the State Senate. He was formerly one of the lessees and Warden of the Penitentiary. It was under his rule that so much barbarism prevailed in its management that it was thought to be fitting and to humanize Christian humanity, Warden, he left the business entirely to a Deputy, who would have recalled as a Communist had he only been in Paris. Mr. CARRY was a son of Gov. ZADOC CARRY, and was a gentleman of ability, but constant and excessive drinking has been the curse of his life, and undoubtedly the cause of his death. He was a Democratic leader, and generally popular, being suave and generous when sober, as well as in his convivialities.

Our farmers are encountering a double pest this year—the potato bugs and the seventeen-year locusts. The former make a specialty of potato vines, but the latter attend to the whole line of vegetation. It is a somewhat singular, but a well-established fact, I believe, that these insects make their appearance regularly every seventeen years, so that their coming is depended upon by the farmers with entire confidence and certainty. Otherwise the crop prospects are good; but this joint attack makes blue looks among those whose property is open to a destruction which cannot be well avoided.

Our great religious gatherings have left us. The Baptist Committee of Arrangements provided hospitality for about three thousand, and the Presbyterians between five and six hundred—as their Assembly is a delegated body.

The Swedenborgians are now holding a convention here. They number but few in the West, and could not keep up an organization in this city, were it not for Hon. J. Y. SCAMMON and his money. He is, in fact, the Church. I suppose there are not two hundred disciples of New Jerusalem in all the State.

We are getting along on the criminal calendar somewhere well up with New-York. There are seventeen persons in jail on charges of murder, or at least of killing, there having been, yesterday, a reinforcement of six roughs, who shot two policemen—one fatally. Whisky is known to have been at the bottom of all but two, and probably had more or less to do with these. Three-fourths of the killing was done in saloon rows, and among the whole lot, I believe there is not a single American. It is not a little singular that the Catholic Priest is called to give consolation to nearly all of our murderers.

Our Common Council last evening took action in favor of increasing rows and murders. A large proportion of the murderous affrays which take place in this city occur on Sundays. Heretofore there has been an ordinance forbidding the keeping open of the saloons on the Sabbath. This the Council has repealed. It is not strange that they have done so, for a large number of our Aldermen are saloon-keepers or drunkards, and it is no wonder that they should legislate in favor of whisky and vice, of which they are the patrons.

The celebrated "Cheney case" has come to an end so far as official action is concerned. Bishop WHITEHOUSE has issued his "bill of major excommunication," and the recusant rector is theoretically disrobed and put out into the cold, so far as the regular Episcopal Church is concerned. He, however, still remains in the pulpit of Christ Church, fascinated by his congregation. The next step we suppose will be litigation about the church property, which is quite valuable. It is not easy to conceive what Mr. CHENEY or his congregation expect to do thus isolated from any recognized denominational relation. It is a position which most people do not fancy, and which we have never known to be very long occupied. Base-ball is raging somewhat, but as it has got down along side of other gaming devices, it is mostly confined to the fancy. Business is fair in all departments. But it is not a pleasing indication to see "to let" on so many dwellings and stores as meets our eyes in passing along the streets. There is, nevertheless, a large amount of building going on, and real estate is firm and selling fully as rapidly as is desirable.

CUBAN AFFAIRS.

The Revolution and its Condition—The New Cordon and its Effects—Matters in Santiago de Cuba—The Villa del Cobre Conspiracy.

From Our Own Correspondent.

HAVANA, Thursday, June 1, 1871.

The fortnightly review of military movements, as published by the Spanish authorities, contains some items of information, which are somewhat interesting in themselves, but which furnish no decisive intelligence as to the future of the war. The rainy season has now begun, and every road throughout the island will be a quagmire. The troops will be put to their utmost to reach the hundreds of retreats in the mountains, which are held by the Cubans, and the latter can fight or leave fighting alone, just as they please. The much-lauded military cordon is undoubtedly a great help to the Spaniards, and will prove more beneficial to them daily. From the Havana and other jails every able-bodied Cuban convicted of treason will be sent to improve this cordon, by cutting the trees and undergrowth, and aiding to build the forts for the hundred and odd detachments which will be stationed to prevent the insurgents from recrossing the line. The Spaniards say that the Cubans cannot recross the line, but this is humbug, although the undertaking will be exceedingly difficult, and attended with more risk than if no line existed. Within the past eight days two Cuban bands, one of forty and the other of twenty-five men, crossed the line, hewing for themselves a road with their machetes through the virgin forest, at a distance of a hundred yards from a Spanish fort, and thirty yards from the camp of a counter-guerrilla; the clink of the machetes was plainly heard at the fort and camp, but in Cuba night attacks are very dangerous and not in fashion, the attacking party always losing. When the Spaniards visited the ground in the morning, only foot-prints were seen, and the men were far away. The first-named band, however, was closely pursued by twenty different Spanish detachments, and compelled to return once more to the eastern side of the line, losing six men; the second, however, is in the rear of the Spanish forces, and comparatively safe, while active recruiting has swelled its number to about sixty. The question is asked, "Where is BERNETA?" His escape from the island has been reported several times, and it was stated that the three men who accompanied him were killed by the Spaniards. He is not with the Cuban Army, he has not arrived at any foreign port, and the Spaniards report that his departure by way of La Guanaja had been prevented. The jurisdiction of Holguin has received numerous visits from the Cuban columns, and matters are assuming a bad aspect for the Spaniards there. The proof is that the best fighter in the Spanish Army, Gen. FERRER, a native Cuban, has gone there to look after matters. During the Summer months the fighting will probably be confined principally to the jurisdictions of Las Tunas, Bayamo and Holguin, with attempts of the Cubans to raise a row in Sancti Espiritu and the Cinco Villas. The Central Department will remain debatable ground, the Spaniards holding the towns and the Cubans the interior, while by common consent the extreme south-easterly part of the island, from Mayari westerly to Iguani, and southerly to Santiago de Cuba, will remain comparatively quiet and in the hands of MAXIMO GOMEZ, BUSTAMANTE, MODESTO, DIAZ, and other prominent Cuban leaders. There are no fears or indications that the wealthy sugar districts and the Western Department will be disturbed.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA.

The conspiracy in this Department, in which nearly all those who furnished arms and ammunition to the Cubans were true and loyal sons of old Spain, is keeping the police, troops, and other civil and military authorities, busy. This Villa del Cobre business, as it is called, has proven that even the vaunted patriotism of Santiago de Cuba Catalans is not proof against the power of gold. One of the accused, before being led to execution, remarked that he done the business with Spaniards, and not with Cubans, because the gold doubloons were Spanish, and he had never received any worthless paper money. The following are the most reliable particulars: The Moors party at the Cobre consisted of four, and their complicity in the insurrection was clearly proven. Report has it that the recent burning of the Cobre bridges, and consequent interruption of traffic over the railroad, was done at the instigation of the Moors, in order to furnish them with a plausible excuse for increasing their trains of pack-mules, pretending that all the merchandise they formerly received by rail must now come on muleback. The brothers JOSE and CARLOS BOTA, the latter a physician, both Spaniards, were also arrested. At Santiago de Cuba, CARLOS GARRAY, JUAN MITJANS and GUARIDA VARELA were at first sentenced to the Ceuta prisons and irons, MITJANS to sentence to ten years' confinement in the Penitentiary, and the other four were shot on Saturday afternoon. The trial and execution took place at the Cobre, whither all prisoners are sent. The number of persons arrested and not yet tried amounts to nearly sixty, many of them Spaniards. A man named L. STABLE was arrested by mistake, and was released. Among other prominent arrests are those of F. ROS and STANISLAUS FIGUEREDO.

DEATH OF A PROMINENT LADY.

Death has just deprived Havana of one of its ornaments, the widow CONCEPCION DE CARDENAS Y CHERPO. She was a member of the aristocracy of virtue, mind and talent, while she held the highest rank among the charitable and was at the head of almost every charitable enterprise. There is not another woman in the island, who has earned such a reputation and although fashionable circles knew but little of Mrs. CHERPO in latter years, her present was well known at the Orphan Asylum and in charity schools, several of which she organized, contributing her presence and money, and devoting all the time which was not taken up by her family cares to deeds of charity. Among Americans she was well known and by them, as well as by her countrymen, respected in the highest degree. QUASIMODO.

A Maine Democratic paper says that the list of candidates for its party's nomination for Governor has been "narrowed down" to eighteen, whose names it gives.

Capt. HUGH NELSON PAGE, "the last surviving officer except one of the battle of Lake Erie," died in Norfolk, Va., a few days ago, aged eighty-four years.

Several of the Ohio country Democratic papers do not take kindly to the Vallandigham platform, and bluntly say they won't accept it or any candidates standing upon it.

St. Louis thinks it worthy of remark that an Italian, who, with his wife, has been begging in that city for twenty years, has accumulated property valued at $20,000.

It is denied that the Democratic Senators held any caucus to consider the treaty, and that any pledges were made or any attempt to make it a party question.

The town of Success in New-Hampshire has wrestled with fate and its name for twenty years and has finally achieved a population of five souls.

The Sherman (Grayson County, Texas) Patriot, a Republican paper, denies that any considerable number of the people of Western Texas desire a division of the State—for the present, at least.

Rev. J. L. CURRY, D. D. of Richmond, Va., has been elected President of Georgetown College, Kentucky. He was member of Congress many years ago, and also served in the rebel Congress.

HENRY S. FOOTE has published a long card in the Tennessee papers, the principal purpose of which seems to be to vindicate himself and to tell Mr. JEFFERSON DAVIS and his satellites that he knows them only to despise them.

A call has been issued for a Convention of colored men of the Southern States in Columbia, S. C., Oct. 12, to secure a more thorough union of effort, action and organization among them.

A new flag, designed by the State Librarian, was thrown to the breeze from the top of the Connecticut State-house, on Monday. It has a white centre on a blue field, bearing clusters of vines and fruit.

The Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser thinks it is surprising and almost incredible that JEFF. DAVIS' remarks have occasioned "such a hue and cry, and in some respects, contemptible, exhibition of temper in the Radical circles of the North and West."

A Hungarian has written to the Mayor of Worcester, Mass., entreating him for the kindness to let him know some accounts about his brother, and assuring him that he will reimburse by such kindness the tranquillity of loving parents.

The deservedly-prosperous Providence Journal has been compelled by increased business to seek more commodious quarters, and on 1st of July will be issued in an enlarged form from the Barton building on Weybosset-street in that city.

Rev. WILLIAM B. WRIGHT, of the Berkeley-street Congregational Church, Boston, has brought upon himself the wrath of all the ultra temperance preachers, by suggesting that the Prohibitory law may have failed to accomplish its good design, and using a greater good might not be accomplished by some different form of legislation, such, for example, as a competent system of excise.

The rules for the national college regatta at Ingleside, were adopted at a meeting of the Regatta Committee in Boston, Saturday afternoon. The race is to be a "straight-away" one—three miles without turning. For the University race, the Harvard, Williams, Amherst, Amherst Agricultural, Brown and Troy Polytechnic crews are entered; while for the race for class crews, entries have been received from Harvard and Brown, and one is expected from Bowdoin.

The Wilmington (Del.) Commercial, of Tuesday, says that the strawberry trade reached its maximum at an unusually early period this season, and now, at a time when in ordinary years the season would be at its height, the shipments show a great falling off. On Monday the shipments from the Delaware Railroad were three car-loads of strawberries for New-York, and three of berries and vegetables for Philadelphia. There was also one car of berries and vegetables from Baltimore for New-York.

A divorced woman in Boston has had the decree set aside, having shown that it was obtained by fraud. At the trial the papers in the case showed that she had acknowledged service of a copy of the writ, but it now turns out that she was not aware that there was a case pending in which she was concerned, and that the use of her name in accepting service was fraudulent, one of the counsel for the plaintiff having procured an officer to serve a copy of the writ on a woman who personated her.

Three street-car conductors in Buffalo, where they use a punch invented by the Superintendent, have been arrested for embezzling money from the Company. It seems their practice was, when receiving a cash fare, (eight cents,) not to punch the "trip slip," as it is called, which denotes the number and amount of cash fares received, but to punch an old ticket, concealed in the hand under the "trip slip," the operation being so adroitly performed as to escape the notice of the passenger.

The Chicago Republican gives a report that some members of Mr. CHENEY's congregation do not side with him, and will take steps in the civil Courts to compel the use of the regular service by a minister in good standing. It further reports that the Bishop will invoke the aid of the law to continue Christ Church in his Diocese, and to force Mr. CHENEY out of the pulpit. It says that Mr. CHENEY has been offered the use of many Eastern pulpits, but should the Bishop succeed, he will preach in Chicago independently of any church organization.

However cramped the planters in the Cotton States may be at present, the Savannah (Ga.) Republican says it is convinced, from all the information it can gather, that their prospects are really better than they have been at any time since the war. It anticipates that they will realize more money and comfort from the growing crops than any year in the past five, because the provision crop will be much larger than usual, and the cotton crop, the proceeds of which will be fully a million bales less than last year, will be money in hand. It also thinks the planters have, by bitter experience, learned economy, and in regulating their plantation expenses, have based their calculations on the minimum and not on the maximum price of the staple.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Hon. Mr. Roosevelt's Truthful Letter.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Hon. Mr. ROOSEVELT, in his statement in today's (Tuesday's) TIMES, expresses himself in terms of very commendable indignation against "An Irish Ex-Officer," "who has so incredibly economized the truth," as he phrases it, and winds up his statement as follows:

"In saying what I do, I mean to cast no aspersion on President GRANT; he may have had good reason for selecting the son of BRIGHAM YOUNG in preference to the son of Gen. MEAGHER, as I think I am right in preferring the latter; he may have been constrained by political necessities; and I only beg that any one who desires to abuse me for my part in the matter will at least stick to the shadow, if not to the substance, of the truth. I can stand any reasonable amount of vilification if it is only seasoned with veracity."

Now, in this thing at President GRANT, has Mr. ROOSEVELT stuck even to the shadow of the truth? As Mr. ROOSEVELT tells us in his statement, that the cadet vacancy in his Congressional district is his patronage, according to the usage, which allows each member of the House of Representatives to fill any such vacancy in his district, he can hardly plead that he did not know that the vacancy from Utah was filled by the Delegate from that Territory, and that President GRANT had no more to do in appointing the son of BRIGHAM YOUNG than he (Mr. ROOSEVELT) had. This is the whole truth, and not its shadow. He knows it, and I respect him for his veracity. VERITAS.

Brooklyn Ferries.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Some of your readers who reside in Brooklyn and have seen your article of this day on Ferry Reform, think that attention might be called to the great inconvenience and delay which all who have to use the Wall-street Ferry are made to suffer ever since the new Fulton Ferry-house was commenced, and the extra boat from thence put on at Wall-street. A third boat might be supposed to increase the accommodation, and would do so if the boats were properly run; but this is far from being the case. Instead of each boat being ready, and leaving the slip on time as her successor comes in to take her place, the boat in slip lies from five to ten minutes, apparently waiting for nothing, while the crossing boat regularly stops in the middle of the stream for near the same time with her whole load of passengers on board. Instead of our being able to calculate as formerly on a boat every ten minutes, and crossing in five, the time is now a far more extended, and quite indefinite, quantity.

Before we have the Brooklyn Bridge, might people not as well wait for what would be done by getting the most, instead of the least, out of our fine steam ferry-boats? One of many to whom TIME IS MONEY.

NEW-YORK, Wednesday, June 7, 1871.

Rev. Mr. Cheney and His Brother Clergymen.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In reply to an article speaking of the letter of sympathy to Rev. Mr. CHENEY from a number of clergymen, I beg leave to submit the following:

We need not be at all surprised to see some names among the list of subscribers to the above-mentioned document. That they should sympathize with the spirit of insubordination evinced by Mr. CHENEY, is certainly not to be wondered at when we review some of their previous actions. In the case of one, there was an open violation of a canon of the Church, in which was manifested not only a rebellious disposition, but a total want of courtesy toward a brother clergyman, not only his rights in his own parish, but even his very existence being entirely ignored. In the case of another there was displayed an entire want of Christian charity, in refusing to perform in his own church the funeral rites over a man who had always been respected for his upright and high-toned conduct toward his fellow-men. This is what they, no doubt, will call liberty of conscience, which is in reality only liberty to do as they please without being subject to any restraint whatever.

The doctrine of regeneration is one of the cardinal doctrines of the Christian Church, and has been recognized as such by the branch of the Church in America. It is therefore incumbent upon every priest, who has taken upon him the vows of ordination in that Church, never to suffer the word "regenerate" to be omitted in the baptismal service, and he who does so is untrue to the cause which he has espoused. The doctrine can be clearly proven from the Scriptures; and without a regeneration of the spirit, a being born again of water and of the spirit, the sacrament of baptism would cease to be a sacrament, and be degraded to an empty and meaningless form.

Again, if this omission be allowed in the Prayer-book, we have no reason to think that the matter will end here, for other amendments will be desired, which will ultimately result in lawless sectarianism.

We are thankful, however, that there is a strong conservative element in the Church, which will preserve her from the encroachments of so-called liberal Christianity. All such contumacy, if it be not nipped in the bud, will be seen in the beginning, for it will lead to no end of dissensions. If the tender consciences of these men will not allow them to continue in the established doctrine of the Church, let them go out of it. They will be received with open arms by those whose sentiments are more congenial to their minds. EL HENI.

HASTINGS, ON THE HUDSON, N. Y.

Not the Same Man.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I had the honor of being elected and serving as a member of the last Legislature, and am also proud of being one of the gentlemen upon whom the thunders of the TIMES are daily leveled—a "son of Tammany;" but I do not keep a "drinking den" in Sixth-avenue or anywhere else. I believe there is a JOHN CAREY at the corner of Sixth-avenue and Tenth-street, but he is not yours, truly and respectfully,

JOHN CAREY,

Member of Assembly, Seventh Assembly Dist.
No. 119 MACDOUGAL-STREET, NEW-YORK,

Mr. Greeley at the South.

From Harper's Weekly.

Mr. GREELEY has been making speeches in Texas and elsewhere, and every American citizen must be glad that the time has at last come when a man may safely say what he thinks in every part of the country. A few years ago, in the good old Democratic days, this was not possible in the Southern States; nor, indeed, in it always possible now. But there has been a great change; and, under Republican ascendency in the country, the fundamental conditions of free popular government are beginning to be understood even in the Southern States. Mr. GREELEY, indeed, spoke very smoothly. He said that "the North" does not think ill of "the South;" and that the City of New-York is worse than the State of Texas, in which property and life are safe. The general sentiment of the people of the North, he said, is to let bygones be by-gones, and if there had been a general amnesty, there would probably have been no Ku-Klux. He said that the better sense of the North justified him in offering bail for JEFFERSON DAVIS, and that all classes would soon be reasoned with. All that is needed is a better mutual understanding.

While Mr. GREELEY was making these conciliatory speeches a correspondence was published between him and some citizens of Kansas, who remarked to him that "without any disrespect to Gen. GRANT, we believe that no living American statesman has the claims of yourself for President," and who asked him if Barkis was willin'. Mr. GREELEY replied that he trusted never to be an aspirant for any office, but that he was in the hands of his friends, and that he thought the next Presidential candidate ought to be "a steadfast, consistent believer in the good old Whig doctrine of one Presidential term." This is a plain declaration that, in Mr. GREELEY's judgment, Gen. GRANT ought not to be the candidate. The Tribune, also, has shown that conviction for some time. And as there is no other candidate upon whom any considerable number of Republicans unite, if the Convention should prove to be unfavorable to the nomination of Gen. GRANT, the friends of Mr. GREELEY perhaps suppose that no name could be presented with more force than his.

One of these friends, however—the Golden Age—in declaring its preference for Mr. GREELEY, says that the nomination of Gen. GRANT would be injudicious, and that "the victorious North should not a second time impose upon the country the conqueror of one half of it." In the Mobile Register, or from the mouth of JEFFERSON DAVIS, we should not be surprised by such a remark. But how was Gen. GRANT "imposed upon the country?" He was unanimously nominated by representatives of the loyal Union Party from every part of the Union. He was elected by votes freely cast everywhere, and his majority would have been greater but for the Democratic frauds in New-York. And is what sense is Gen. GRANT the conqueror of one-half the country? The war was the vindication of the right of this people to their own country and their own governments. The result was not the conquest of half the country; it was the salvation of the whole country from fatal division. The right of the people of the United States in the insurgent section of the Union was not in the slightest degree impaired, because for some time it could be asserted only by arms. In a certain technical sense, as the rebellion was intrenched in one part of the country, and was subdued by force, that section may be said to have been conquered. But we can imagine nothing more offensive to a loyal Union citizen than the representation of the modest soldier whom LINCOLN implicitly trusted, and who never by word or deed betrayed the confidence which every honest American reposed in him, whose victory was unsullied by so much as a word of violence, and whose report of the situation of the seat of the rebellion after the war was so gentle that Mr. SUMNER called it "whitewashing," as "the conqueror of one-half the country."

We do not depreciate Mr. GREELEY's services to the country. But those of Gen. GRANT are not inconsiderable. From the military point of view which The Golden Age selects, he is not the conqueror of half the country; he is the saviour of the whole country.

TRAGEDY IN MISSOURI.

Brutal Murder of a Farmer in Bolle County—Pursuit and Capture of the Assassins.

From the St. Louis Republican, June 4.

A horrible murder was committed on the last of May, in Bolle County, Missouri, four miles from the village of Perry. It grew out of a feud about a line fence. The five sons of one WESLEY UNDERWOOD, with the brother-in-law, accompanied by the father, armed with shotguns and revolvers, are alleged to have gone to a place where two brothers, ROBERT and JOHN MENEFEE, were quietly at work on their own land building a fence. Some dispute had existed previously between the parties regarding the ownership of the rails and the boundary line of the fence, and, as the UNDERWOODS approached Mr. MENEFEE, three of them are accused of deliberately firing upon him. The shot caused MENEFEE to fall, but it appears having his gun loaded with bird-shot, lying by him, he seized it while down, and discharged the contents into the leader of the Underwood gang, and then called on his brother, JOHN MENEFEE, to go for a doctor. JOHN said that if he went, they would kill him (ROBERT) during his absence. JOHN then attempted to carry his prostrate brother away from the field. The UNDERWOODS then closed around, and it is alleged deliberately knocked ROBERT over the head with a gun, breaking the breech of the weapon by the force of the blow. They then knocked JOHN MENEFEE on the head with the barrel, causing a severe contusion. JOHN then abandoned the nearly lifeless body of his brother, and made his escape from the scene, not without, however, receiving several shots, which perforated his clothes but did no other injury. The UNDERWOODS, our informant says, then fired several shots into the body of their victim, and broke the latter's gun over his head, and by repeated blows disfigured the face of the corpse. The citizens in the vicinity immediately joined the officer and effected the arrest of all the UNDERWOODS, with the exception of one who managed to conceal himself.

The UNDERWOODS are considered desperate men. Some six weeks ago, they being involved in a lawsuit, went to a Justice of the Peace, in Bolle County, who was hearing the case, and handing the sheriff and deputy disarmed them. The UNDERWOODS living in Monroe County, the Justice proceeded with a witness, a young man named HATFIELD, to the latter County to procure warrants for their arrest. The latter went to Perry to wreak vengeance on HATFIELD for acting as witness. One of them approached him with a drawn revolver, but was prompt enough to divert by Hatfield before having time to discharge his weapon. HATFIELD taking two revolvers from him and throwing them into the streets, and giving his assailant a few kicks left him. The UNDERWOOD, recovering, went toward him again with a knife, HATFIELD retreating, warned the public well, warning him to keep off. UNDERWOOD still approaching, HATFIELD struck him with his fist, and after knocking him down, kicked him so that he had to be carried to his bed. Six of the UNDERWOODS visited themselves that night, and went to the house of Geo. HOAG, and, accompanying, demanded HATFIELD, who was staying there. HATFIELD walked out past the party, and, being unarmed, fled for safety to New London, the county seat of Bolle. The next day Sheriff STEERS went to the UNDERWOODS and notified them that they were needed at New London. They obeyed the summons, going heavily armed with revolvers, but attended no one, and concluded to give bonds to keep the peace in the sum of $500 each. The bonds being entered into by two respectable citizens, they were discharged.

Interview Between Hy. Greeley and Jefferson Davis.

From the Memphis Avalanche, June 4.

At 10½, in company with Gen. MERRITT and one of the Avalanche corps, Mr. GREELEY took a ride through the principal streets of the city, visiting, among other places, the Navy-yard, Fort Pickering, the County Jail, and various public places. Calling at the Post-office for letters, Gen. MERRITT was informed that letters for himself and Mr. GREELEY had been sent to the Peabody Hotel, and there the carriage at once proceeded. Mr. MILLER at once politely invited the party to alight, and the quartet proceeded to one of the parlors of the hotel, where Mr. GREELEY refreshed himself with ice-water, after which he was shown through the magnificent dining-room. Learning that Mr. JEFF. DAVIS was a sojourner at the Peabody, Mr. GREELEY inquired concerning his health, and was informed that Mr. DAVIS had been looking for a call from him all the morning, and had just left the house. Mr. GREELEY said he would like to pay his respects to Mrs. DAVIS if he had time and opportunity, but as he had neither, he requested Mr. MILLER to present his compliments, saying that she called upon him in Baltimore once when Mr. DAVIS and herself were in trouble, and that he was much impressed with her devotion and earnestness. He furthermore said that Mrs. DAVIS was a connection of the BLAIR family, the elders of which were his political and personal friends for many years.

About 12 o'clock Hon. JEFF. DAVIS called at the Overton Hotel,

TRANSIT RAILROAD.

[illegible] Meeting of the Board of Directors.

The second meeting of the Board of Directors of the Viaduct Railroad was held at 3 P. M. yesterday, in the City Hall, Mr. Henry Hilton presiding.

Mr. A. T. STEWART, on behalf of the Committee on Finance, presented a report in favor of opening books of subscription for the capital stock of the Company at once, and the resolution was adopted that the books be opened forthwith.

A resolution was also adopted, that the roll of shareholders of the road be called, and that they each state what amount of stock they will subscribe for, ten per cent of the par value of the stock to be paid in at once, and the remainder when called for, no call, however, to be made at any one time for more than ten per cent. of the par value of the stock.

Mr. BELMONT—What amount of stock do you intend to take? I want to know that before I subscribe for mine.

Mr. LEMONT said $1,000,000 of stock must be subscribed before anything else could be done, and ten per cent. paid in. The total amount of stock to be issued was a matter for after consideration.

Mr. HILTON said the purpose of the meeting, as he understood it, was to subscribe for this road.

Mr. JOHN T. JOHNSON said he would like to know something about the value of the road. He had not yet looked into the matter, and would like some information on that point.

Mr. LEMONT said the value of the road would be determined by the future.

The roll of directors was then called, and the following subscriptions were recorded:

A. T. Stewart	[illegible]	A. T. Hall	[illegible]
Wm. M. Tweed	[illegible]	J. J. Astor	[illegible]
A. Belmont	[illegible]	W. B. Astor	[illegible]

Chas. E. Tracy	[illegible]	John T. Johnston	[illegible]
Wm. B. Travers	[illegible]	Henry Hilton	[illegible]
M. B. Connolly	[illegible]

After the subscriptions had been announced, it was received that the remaining shares be appropriated among the four absent directors—Messrs. Hanson Mason, Jas. Lee and Henry Barnard—Mr. R. P. Morrison, Mr. JOSEPH SELIGMAN, for Mr. SELIGMAN taking the place of Mr. John Q. Jones, who handed in his resignation.

A letter was received, signed by HORACE GREELEY and SAMUEL SINCLAIR, expressing unbounded faith in the ultimate success of the road, and subscribing for ten shares of stock thereon.

It was then announced that the total subscriptions received amounted to $1,300,000.

Letters were also read from Messrs. SERRILL and EIDLITZ, accepting the positions of engineers of the road, and from Mr. EDWARD MATHEWS, suggesting that the road commence at Harlem.

Mr. HILTON said he believed their charter would enable them to carry out the suggestion, if it should be considered desirable.

The Board then adjourned to Wednesday next at 2 P. M.

Bible Class No. 2 of the Abyssinian M. E. Church.

The second annual reception of Bible Class No. 2 of the Abyssinian M. E. Church, Norfolk-street, near Grand, was held on Tuesday evening at the residence of Mrs. S. G. REYNEST, No. [illegible] Madison-street. The exercises, consisting of singing, addresses, &c., were very fine. An eloquent address was delivered by the popular speaker, H. W. CADY. Afterward followed the Treasurer's and Secretary's reports. Short addresses were made by the officers, ex-officers and members of the class. A tempting collation was fully enjoyed by all. The Committee deserve great credit, which consisted of the following: Messrs. H. W. Cady, Walter Felter, Jr., G. M. Taylor, J. A. Cornell, A. O. Wendell, Misses Ella Lenoxet, Jane E. Hodges, Ella Cox, Linda Wilson. At a late hour the happy assemblage dispersed to their homes, feeling satisfied with the events of the evening.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.

By Judge Blatchford.

DECISIONS IN BANKRUPTCY.

John Sedgwick, Assignee, &c., vs. James Millward.—There can be no doubt (says the Judge) that the defendant took, by his executions, an unlawful preference. The debtors were insolvent, and procured and suffered their property to be taken in the executions with intent to give a preference to the defendant as a creditor, and he had reasonable cause to believe that the debtors were insolvent and that a fraud on the act was intended. The assignee is entitled to recover from the defendant the property or its value. The property has been sold. Under the circumstances of evidence in this case, I must, in the spirit of section 35 of the act, regard the sale of the property in New-York by the Sheriff of New-York, as having been made under the order of this Court, and the proceeds of such sale as the measure of the value of such property for the purposes of the controversy in this suit. The defendant is entitled to be allowed credit for the $1,217 50 paid to the Sheriff out of the proceeds for his fees on the execution. In regard to the property in Kings County, the plaintiff is entitled to its value, less the expenses of selling it. But it does not appear what such expenses were. One item, of $20 for expenses, seems to be small, as, for how much it brought on the sale, I am not satisfied with the estimate of value put upon it in the evidence. What it brought at the sale may, if the condition of the property at the time, and the circumstances of the sale be shown, be as good evidence of value as such estimate is. There must be an accounting for such value before a Master unless the parties can agree upon it. The defendant cannot be allowed credit for the amount of the fees of the Sheriff of Kings County on the execution to him. The plaintiff is entitled to a decree according to the views herein expressed.

T. M. North for the plaintiff. F. R. Comdert for the defendant.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART I.—JUNE 7.

Before Judge Spencer and a Jury.

UNLAWFUL SEIZURE OF A POTTERY.

William Heinmuller vs. John C. Abbott and Hiram B. Gray.—This is an action to recover damages to the extent of $5,000, for injuries to his business, resulting from a trespass in the seizure of the "Park Pottery" in Seventy-fourth-street, near Third-avenue. It appeared on the trial which occupied two days, that defendants held an execution against one Albert Appell, and claiming Appell to have been interested in the pottery, caused the execution to be levied thereon. Plaintiff claiming as sole owner, gave bond to the Sheriff for the value of the property, obtained its release and delivery to him, and then instituted the present suit for damages.

The jury awarded plaintiff $3,200, and the Court granted an extra allowance of $100.

S. B. Brague and John D. Hull for plaintiff; M. Hallaran, C. Patterson, and Mr. Wakeman, for defendants.

FIRST DISTRICT COURT—JUNE 7.

Before Judge Quinn.

WAREHOUSE CHARGES.

J. J. Solomon vs. John W. Gardner.—This was an action to recover $50, alleged overcharges for Government warehouse storage. About five tons of rattan belonging to plaintiff was brought to this port by the ship Washington Beach in February last, and sent directly by order of the delivery clerk to defendant's warehouse. At the end of the month plaintiff commenced to take it away in trucks, but only a small portion was delivered when defendant informed him that if he should take the goods one day beyond the month he would charge for a whole month's storage, thus making two months in all. The bill when furnished was objected to as being exorbitant, but defendant refused to deliver the goods until the amount was paid, whereupon the bill was paid by plaintiff's clerk without anything being said as to its being an overcharge.

Much testimony was taken as to the rate of charges for storage, and the right to include insurance, &c., and in deciding the case Judge QUINN said substantially, that as to the question whether the payment was under protest, he was inclined to the opinion that it was not. The amount of the bill being in controversy, and the defendant having a lien upon the goods, he was not, in default until the plaintiff had tendered him the proper amount. This was not done. The evidence produced by the plaintiffs to show what the customary charges are in that city for storing rattan, was very indefinite and unsatisfactory. If anything be established by the evidence it is the fact that in relation to this article of merchandise there is no custom in that city fixing the rate of storage in the absence of a special agreement between the parties. The rate charged might be unreasonably high, but, if so, he was unable to see how that Court could remedy that matter. Whichever way the case was decided he was informed that an appeal would be taken, and in his opinion it was highly proper that the questions involved should be reviewed by a higher tribunal.

Judgment for the defendant.

WEDNESDAY, June 7—P. M.

The Bull speculators in the Gold Room "let up" on the Cash Gold to a partial extent this forenoon, and the bonus for lending it was less severe than yesterday. But the party still held control of the market. Their contracts are said to amount to eight or ten millions, while the stock of Gold in Bank and outside the Treasury altogether, is supposed to be not over fifteen millions. The Treasury will sell at least a million to-morrow, but this sum is not over two days' receipts for Customs. The Bankers sent out today in Gold and Silver by the Scotia, $800,000. The foreign Exchanges are 110@110¼ ⅞ cent. net, 60 day Bills, and 110¼@110⅝ short sight, but there is no anxiety to remit while Gold continues scarce, and outside Bills are making against various American Bonds placed abroad. It is intimated that the Bulls in Gold are Bears in the Railway Stocks, but if this new movement is on the calculation that Money can be made scarce, it would seem to be a little too early in the Summer months for substantial success.

The Public Funds continue scarce in the open market. The Brokers offered, altogether, only $1,964,000 United States 5-20s to the Sinking Fund today, of which $1,000,000 was accepted at rates ⅛@¼ ⅞ cent. below the price of Gold. At the Stock Exchange, in the afternoon, 114⅛ was paid for the 5-20s of 1867.

Money is lending at 4@5 ⅞ cent. per annum to the Brokers, returnable on demand. Prime Merchant paper, of short date, is 5@6 ⅞ cent., and ordinary discounts at Bank are 6@7 ⅞ cent. Lenders who are disposed to place Money on Bond and Mortgage find no difficulty in getting 7 ⅞ cent., with good extra commissions in some instances where they are willing to buy Mortgages secondhand. Some of the Insurance Companies and other Moneyed corporations have more applications for Money on Bond and Mortgage on Real Estate than they are able to accommodate.

The Stock Exchange is fairly strong on the Railway list and Miscellaneous Shares, but there is hardly the general confidence in the "June rise" which was anticipated from the superabundance of Money and the reported manipulations of the great clique. New-York Central was decidedly better today, and there was an apparent upward turn in Erie Stock, with considerable movement at 30¼@31 ⅞ cent. In the Western Roads, demand for Rock Island continued strong, while the Lake Shore demand and price were less buoyant than the various rumors of the extra scrip decision would seem to call for. The North-wests and St. Pauls are steady. In the Hannibal and St. Joseph Stocks there is a bearish inclination on the unsettled and uncertain condition of the affairs and administration of the Road, and, singular to say, the price of the Preferred Stock is below the Common, probably because short sellers prefer to operate against 80,000 Shares of Preferred to only 40,000 shares of the Common. The property is supposed to have been passed by the Boston and Albany holders into the keeping of new friends. It has lost the credit of its association with the so-called Jay Roads, Michigan Central, and Chicago, Burlington and Quincy. Another Missouri Company, the North Missouri Road, is in trouble. The Road is advertised to be sold, under the Second Mortgage, on the 26th of August. This mortgage is $4,000,000, behind $6,000,000 First Mortgage. There is said to be a Third lien of $5,000,000; a floating debt of $2,500,000, and a Common Stock of about $8,500,000—making altogether an involvement of nearly or quite $26,000,000, and this after the State of Missouri has surrendered its lien of $4,500,000 for Bonds advanced in the early history of the Road, and spent in its construction. Rumor says that a ring has been formed to buy the Road under the Second Mortgage, and to reconstitute the whole property on the cheapest terms the junior liens and Common Stock can be bought up for.

After the late Boards the following quotations were made as compared with Tuesday night. The Railways rather dull at the close:

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EUROPE.

According to La Vérité a compromise has been effected in the Assembly in relation to the ORLEANS Princes, by which the decree of exile shall be repealed and their election as deputies declared valid, but the Princes are not to take their seats nor are they to engage in intrigues to reach the throne. M. THIERS has assented to this scheme. Paris has suffered, by the fighting and conflagrations, a loss amounting to about $20,000,000 of francs. The Council of Hygiene declare there is no epidemic in the city, nor is there danger of any. The Figaro suggests the re-opening of the gaming houses and lotteries to attract strangers to the city, and favors the abolition of the passport system. The municipal elections at Marseilles and Tarascon have been declared void. The disturbances at Lyons are denied. All the pieces of the Column of Vendome have been found, and the monument will be exactly restored. M. LOUIS BLANC has written a letter to the Figaro disclaiming the Commune. LULLIER, the Communist leader, has been arrested. It is said that M. JULES FERRY will be appointed Minister to Washington. M. PICARD has been appointed Governor of the Bank of France. M. ROUHER has been appointed Procureur-General. Twenty-five women were killed and fifty injured by a railway accident near Paris, yesterday. The funeral of the late Archbishop of Paris took place yesterday, from the Church of Notre Dame. The Italian Foreign Office agrees to give up fugitive insurgents taken in Italian territory to the French authorities.... The German navigator, JOHN GEORGES KOHL, died on Tuesday in Bremen, aged sixty-four years. The German Parliament will close about the 15th, but the members will attend the triumphal entry on the 16th. VON MOLTKE has been on a visit to Strasbourg. The Cross Gazette confirms the report that France will send a Chargé d'Affaire to Berlin.... The Spanish Finance Minister has determined to make his Budget a Cabinet question, and thus forced the Committee of the Cortes to reject a proposition to postpone.... Signor DIVECHI, formerly Italian Minister to Vienna, is now in Egypt for the purpose of establishing an Italian Colony.... The bark Giuseppe Proto, at Cork, reports losing overboard the master, one mate, and several sailors.

GENERAL.

The New-Hampshire State Legislature met yesterday, at Concord. The roll-call of the House showed that all but two members were present. The candidates for Speaker were seated beside each other in front of the desk during the balloting. Hon. G. W. NEMITH was elected temporary Chairman. It was then voted to proceed to ballot for Speaker. The whole number of votes for Speaker was 224. WM. H. GOVE, Democrat and Labor Reform, received 104; JAMES Q. ADAMS, of Manchester, Republican, 109. Mr. GOVE, of Weare, the successful candidate for Speaker, is an old Abolitionist, and was nominated by the Democrats to secure the Labor Reform vote for Governor. The Senate was not organized. The vote for Governor will take place today.

The International Typographical Union, yesterday, adopted resolutions admitting presses to membership; extending the jurisdiction of the subordinate unions half way to the next International Union; also, leaving to the subordinate unions the regulation of the apprenticeship system. A motion to take from the table the resolution to allow colored printers the rights of membership was laid on the table by yeas 44, nays 17. A resolution was adopted substituting arbitration instead of strikes. Richmond, Va., was chosen as the place for the next annual meeting.

The twenty-fifth annual meeting of the American Association of Superintendents of Lunatic Asylums is now in session in Toronto, Canada.

The New-Brunswick Government has appointed three of its members, Messrs. KING, MOORE and FRASER, a delegation to confer with the Governments of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, with a view to united action against the Washington Treaty.

The annual examination at the Naval Academy, at Annapolis, was concluded on Tuesday. Secretary BOUTWELL made a short address to the graduating class, which numbers fifty, among whom are two naval apprentices.

An oil-refinery at Cleveland, Ohio, exploded, yesterday, when 1,100 barrels of oil were destroyed. ADAM KEHR, an employe, was instantly killed, and three others severely injured. The origin of the disaster is unknown.

Mr. Greeley and his Southern Friends.

Although it may be chiefly a matter of personal interest that Mr. HORACE GREELEY should have consented to hold an interview with JEFF. DAVIS, immediately after the latter had been spouting sedition through several Southern States, there are some other incidents in connection with Mr. GREELEY'S Southern tour which, now that he has returned, we hope he will find time to explain. It has seemed strange to many that Mr. GREELEY should consent to act as Chairman of the Tammany Republicans, an organization which now serves nothing but Tammany, and does its work under false pretenses. It seemed still more strange that as soon as Mr. GREELEY turned his face Southward, the Tribune began to attack Gen. GRANT, while Mr. GREELEY allowed his friends to put him in nomination for the Presidency. Mr. GREELEY'S letter to his Kansas friend was dated May 4, and is gave a coy consent to the proposition that he should be nominated for the Presidency. After that came the Southern tour, in the course of which Mr. GREELEY seems to have aimed at securing the sympathies, if not the support, of the Southern people. His consenting to hold a complimentary "pow-wow" with JEFF. DAVIS only seems to have been a part of the general design. Everywhere Mr. GREELEY has been trying his fascinating powers on the Southern people. At New-Orleans he said that "had universal amnesty been adopted five years ago, there would now be no Ku-Klux." At Galveston he made the following remarks, which are certainly much opposed to the general statements of the Tribune, and, as we believe, to the facts. We quote from the Houston Telegraph:

"I believe at this day that not so much violence occurs in Texas as in New-York City, and certainly there is not nearly as much said about it. With about an equal population in Texas as in the City of New-York, there are more desperadoes in that City than in Texas, and it is harder work to manage them."

Again, we find the following passage from one of Mr. GREELEY'S speeches quoted in the Cincinnati Gazette. That paper very naturally says of it: "If this be the fundamental principle of government, we of the North have been fighting against it, and have been guilty of a crime so monstrous that language cannot describe it." The following is the quotation:

"We have no other doctrine concerning secession than that embodied in the preamble to our fathers' Declaration of Independence, namely, that 'Governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed'—which consent the governed have the right to withdraw. Our fathers felt themselves justified in seceding from and dividing the British Empire on this ground, renouncing their allegiance to the Crown, whereof they had been born subjects, and whereto they had sworn fidelity. Having been educated to believe them right in their revolt, we shall not willingly defile their graves at this late day."

Even these sentiments, and the construction put upon them, are not so strange in Mr. GREELEY'S mouth as the following extract from another of his speeches, reported in the Vicksburg Herald of June 2:

"I greet you here," said Mr. GREELEY, "as citizens who will to time feel honor in the glory of Stonewall Jackson as well as those who were on the opposing armies, [cheers;] who will glory alike in the glory of R. E. Lee as well as those who fought against him. He felt that the clouds that now hover over the country would soon be swept away, and vanish in the grand, growing and rising republic which will one day embrace all the countries and all the people of this North American Continent."

If this is not carrying magnanimity a little too far, we may as well admit at once that we have wronged the South by resisting it at all, and offer it full compensation for its injuries.

The above quotations may all be susceptible of explanation, but as they stand they will not increase the estimation in which Mr. GREELEY is held, in this part of the country at least. With JEFF. DAVIS going about the South talking of reviving the lost cause, at the head of triumphal processions, and bands of music playing the "Bonnie Blue Flag," it is unfortunate that Mr. GREELEY should have taken it into his head to hob-nob with the traitor, and talk about the North "glorying in the glory" of LEE and JACKSON. All this happens, too, at a time when Mr. GREELEY allows himself to be put forward as a candidate for the Presidency; when he is Chairman of a local committee which is engaged in doing all that it possibly can to discredit a Republican Administration; and when Tammany recognizes the importance of the alliance by placing the Tribune on the list of papers for receiving the corporation advertisements, which now are never given except as a reward for past services, or out of "gratitude for favors to come."

Tammany Civil Service.

We are glad to find the World, which is the most zealous, if not the most discreet, organ of the Tammany Ring, coming out so strenuously in favor of civil service reform. Of course the World has no hopes of seeing any reform of the civil service, or of anything else, effected under a Republican Administration. No good can possibly come out of Nazareth, or out of Gen. GRANT, according to the creed of the World. And yet it is a little remarkable that he should be the first President who ever recommended such a reform in his Message, and that a Republican Congress should be the first to take any steps to carry it out. Everybody who has read the political history of the country knows when it was, and how and by whom it was, that the present demoralization of the civil service was introduced. It was under a Democratic Administration—under the Administration of the great idol of Democracy, Gen. JACKSON, who first announced, as a political watchword, that "to the victors belong the spoils." The Democratic Party, from JACKSON'S time to the present, has uniformly adhered to the doctrine expressed in this motto, and has defended it in theory, and enforced it in practice. Indeed, it is almost the only principle to which the party has shown a consistent and steady devotion. The chief of it has been, as a matter of course, to thoroughly corrupt and demoralize the public service; but no Democrat during the twenty-five years which that party controlled the Government since the principle was first adopted, ever uttered a word against it, or even suggested such a thing as a reform of the civil service. No one believes they would advocate it now if they were in power at Washington, or had any immediate prospect of getting into power. If they would, why don't they urge the reform where they have the power? Why don't the World advocate a reform in the civil service of this State, and especially of this City? Surely if such a reform is needed anywhere it is here. The civil service of the entire world might be challenged to show a lithe of the corruption, the rascality, and the incompetency of the holders of office under the Tammany "Ring." Imagine a Board of Examiners sitting on the qualifications of our City officials. How many of them would remain in office if the Board did its duty? Why nine-tenths of them would hardly be found competent—so corrupt and demoralized have they become from holding office—to return to their original callings as street-sweepers and hod-carriers. If the civil service reform which the World advocates for the National Government were introduced in this City, Tammany Hall could not retain control of the Metropolis three months. It is only through the enormous political patronage which it possesses, and which is distributed without any regard whatever to character or fitness for office, but wholly as a reward for party service—that it is enabled to hold the City in its iron grasp. The World knows this perfectly well, for it is itself a sharer in this corrupting patronage, and the most striking example of the demoralizing effects of the evil it denounces in the National Government, but does not denounce in the New-York Ring.

Liberal Catholicism.

It is obvious that the dogma of Papal infallibility has seriously divided the Roman Catholic Church. It is equally obvious that the partisans of that dogma are becoming bold and aggressive toward the civil power. The Catholic Governments of Europe early recognized that the declaration of the infallibility of the Pope made the maintenance of the relations previously existing between them and him extremely precarious. The Government of Austria promptly declared that those relations were dissolved by the enunciation of the doctrine. It was impossible, Count BEUST, the then Chancellor of the Empire of Austria and Hungary, stated, to sustain a compact, one party to which declared himself to be superior in authority to the other. Treaties could only bind equals, and no treaty could be entered into with a power that, in announcing its absolute sovereignty over the whole world, placed the other signatory in the position of a vassal.

But the relations of the Pope as the representative of the Catholic Church were very intimate and extensive in the case of Austria, and very important, though not so well defined, with all the Catholic countries. The concordats between the Pope and the various Catholic Governments guaranteed to the Catholic authorities a control, in some cases exclusive, over the education of the children of Catholic subjects, and the disposition of a large proportion of the funds raised for the support of religion, besides a number of special and limited endowments. Since the dissolution of the Austrian Concordat, the overthrow of the Empire in France, and the expulsion of the BOURBONS from Spain, it has become a very important question how far the former connection of the Governments with the Catholic Church shall be continued, and with whom that connection shall be formed. This question is being actively discussed throughout Europe, and with special earnestness by that large body of intelligent and sincere men who regard the decree of infallibility as an usurpation, and the claims of the Pope to represent the Church as vitiated by the monstrous nature of that pretension. This portion of the Catholic Press—and it is by far the most able and the best informed portion—points to the recent political action of the representatives of the infallibility party as proof that they are striving to bend to its support the civil power. As instances, there are cited the obstinate, though desperate, struggle against non-intervention in the affairs of foreign nations made by the clerical party in the German Reichstag; the active interference of the priests in the Bohemian elections; the particularist "programme" of the South German Catholics, actuated by a jealousy of Prussia as the chief State of the new German Empire; and the very strenuous effort of the Spanish Bishops to secure an expression of submission to the Pope by regretting, in the answer to the royal address, the freedom of worship brought about by the recent revolution. Everywhere it is evident that the Papist party is struggling to control the Governments of Europe in whatever action may be taken toward religion at home, or toward the Pope and Italy abroad.

We are not without similar attempts in this country. The Government of the State of New-York, which is now substantially controlled by the Roman Catholic interest, has already shown willingness to accede to the doctrine that taxes paid by Roman Catholics for public education should be expended under the direction of Roman Catholic authorities. This doctrine, by whatever sect it may be advanced, and whatever recognition it may have received, on a small scale, from Protestant denominations, is pernicious. It is capable of being made the entering wedge by which the influence of religious societies shall be forced upon the active agencies of government. It rests, at bottom, on precisely the same ground as the claim that Catholic sovereigns should maintain the temporal power of the Pope, and that the Government in Catholic countries should support the Catholic religion from the public treasury.

In Europe the claims of the Papists are stoutly contested by the Liberal Catholics. A party is forming which, though modest in pretensions, has the germs of steady growth. It holds that if any Catholics are to assume the benefits formerly enjoyed by the representatives of the Pope, it must be those who abjure the dogma which makes the Pope incapable of sustaining relations even of equality with the Government of an independent nation. It must be those who acknowledge the allegiance of citizens, and who are bound by no confession of superior allegiance to a foreign pretender. The tendency of this party is to divide the Catholics of Europe by lines of nationality, and, by removing the blind adherence to the supremacy of Rome, to foster intelligence, conscience, and progressive ideas. Such a tendency, so far as it advances, changes Catholicism from a dangerous fanaticism to a religion rational in its nature, and capable of bestowing the blessings that flow from enlightened religious earnestness. However it may be treated by the Governments of Europe, as at present framed, it is a hopeful sign, and one to which the demagogues in this country, who truckle to the worst passions of the worst portion of Catholics, will do well to take heed.

Horse-Riding in Central Park.

Year by year, Central Park has increased in popularity. Every season lends it a new and peculiar charm. A ramble through its winding walks in the bracing Autumn weather is not less pleasant than the drive and music of Summer afternoons; while most of its frequenters would find it hard to choose between the pleasure of boating on the lake under the August moonlight, and the Winter's skating over the frozen surface. But, though always lovely, the Park is never so attractive as at present. The mosquito has not yet begun to make desolate our pleasant places with the winding of "his small but sullen horn." The trees are now everywhere at their fullest leafage, the lawns and meadows are covered with the brilliant and vivid verdure of early Summer, and the flower-beds are in luxuriant bloom. All the ingenuity of King mismanagement has failed as yet to spoil the beauty of this masterpiece of landscape gardening, and the multitudes who daily throng its walks and drives attest the appreciation and gratitude of our citizens.

But, while hundreds of carriages fill the Park, and thousands of pedestrians explore the by-paths from the Terrace to the Pool, we regret to see that the bridle-paths are still comparatively little frequented. We have enlarged before on the pleasure and healthfulness of riding, especially for so sedentary a people as ours, and on the facilities offered at Central Park for this most delightful exercise. But although the taste for riding has undoubtedly increased of late years, it is yet far from being so general, even among people of wealth and leisure, as it ought to be. Any one who doubts this statement can readily be convinced by visiting the Park in the afternoon or early morning, and observing how few are thee equestrians in proportion to the people in carriages or on foot. Here and there one may meet a riding-master, leading out his awkward squad for an airing; or a solitary cavalier, usually an elderly gentleman, taking his "constitutional;" or more rarely, a lady enjoying her solitary canter, followed by a groom. But, considering that this is a City of a million of inhabitants, the rarity of riders in our public places, still more the rarity of good riders, only serves to prove that the pastime is not really popular.

No means should be left untried to encourage an exercise at once so graceful and so invigorating. Undoubtedly, horsemanship is with us, at least with the dwellers in our cities, an acquired taste, whose cultivation implies the overcoming of many old prejudices and of much vis inertiæ. But in New-York, it is well to remember there is another obstacle scarcely less formidable, which has much to do with the infrequency of equestrianism in our Park. That is the only ground within reasonable distance of the City where ladies can ride at all, or where gentlemen care to ride. And even the Park is so far from a large proportion of City homes, and the approaches to it are so ill adapted for equestrianism, that many who would be glad to ride in the Park give up the notion from the difficulty of getting there. On the slippery and treacherous pavements of many of our streets, even a practiced rider might hesitate to trust himself, and few ladies would venture to ride at all. Besides, a natural dislike to expose their real or imagined clumsiness to the eyes of a great City deters many types, who would feel quite at ease in the secluded lanes and bridle-paths of the Park.

Of course, gentlemen can, if they choose, get over this difficulty by mounting their hacks at some stable, of which there are many in the neighborhood of Fifty-ninth-street. But a lady is not so easily contented. She has her habit to vex her still further, and unless she may drive to the mounting place in her carriage, or lives within a square or two of the Park, all the stables in the world would fail to relieve her perplexity. Now, why should we not have in the Park itself facilities for this purpose? A small building on the plan of the Nursery, (if not that, or some of the similar edifices already existing,) with suitable retiring-rooms and attendants, where ladies who desired to ride might have their horses brought, and make all necessary changes in their apparel, might aid in no slight degree to bring into popularity a most agreeable pastime, and would certainly add to the completeness of our civic pleasure ground. And if, in connection with this establishment, a small number of saddle-horses were kept on hire at moderate rates, many would no doubt be induced to ride, who now cannot enjoy the pleasure. The difficulty we have here suggested, and for which we propose a remedy, is no imaginary one. And since the remedy is so feasible and so inexpensive, might it not be well to give it at least a trial? The Park cannot be called perfect until it ministers in the fullest possible way to our necessities of physical comfort and enjoyment.

West Point Affairs.

The annual examinations which are now in progress at West Point seem to indicate that the Military Academy is still in very good condition as regards all merits in which it has hitherto excelled. The numerous Courts-martial before which colored Cadet SMITH has appeared, and the action of the First Class in attempting to expel certain members of a lower class, have tended to bring the Academy into unfavorable notice; but little has been elicited to show that its efficiency or discipline has been impaired. Some color, however, has been given to the many reports which have been circulated concerning the alleged mismanagement of its officers, by a recent order appointing a new Superintendent and Adjutant. We do not understand the order relieving these officers as an implied censure upon their administration of the affairs of the Academy. The present Superintendent and Adjutant have held their positions for the full term usually allotted to such duty, and there is nothing about the manner or nature of their transfer to other stations which seems to cast any reflection upon them. Gen. PITCHER and Major BOYNTON are highly esteemed by their brother officers, as well as by the cadets who have been under their charge, and they will leave records of duty well performed. Gen. RUGER and Lieut. CHURCHILL, the new Superintendent and Adjutant, are also accomplished and efficient officers. What West Point really wants is not a reform in its discipline, or a remodeling of its curriculum, but a freedom from all outside political influence. Politicians have little appreciation of the principles which lie at the foundation of military discipline; and if cadets or soldiers find that the will of a member of Congress is more potent than the decision of a Court-martial, they are likely to have little dread of the terrors of military tribunals, especially if they are sure of the friendship of some influential Congressman or Senator. At the outset of the rebellion, when Private SCOTT, of the Army of the Potomac, was pardoned, after being sentenced—under the articles of war—to death for sleeping on post, it was erroneously supposed by many that the leniency exhibited in him would have a very beneficial effect on discipline throughout the army. The fact is, that it had exactly the opposite effect, and made a minor offense of what had always been considered a capital crime in a soldier. The pardon of that soldier made it impossible to execute any sentinel who should subsequently be guilty of a similar offense, and hence many lives may have been lost through the negligence of sentinels. So the commutation of sentences of cadets has seriously interfered with the discipline at the Military Academy, and the best way to restore it is not by making radical changes in administration, but by leaving all such matters where they belong, exclusively, under the control of the War Department and the General of the Army.

The difficulty with regard to the admission of colored cadets is not likely to recur, and Mr. SMITH, the pioneer of his race in the Academy, has probably now learned by experience how to keep from breaking the rules and regulations. Mr. NAPIER, the second colored appointee, is reported to be a very intelligent and sensible young man, and will probably have no more difficulty in remaining than he did in passing his initiatory examination.

The examination of the cadets by the Professors, in the presence of the Board of Visitors, is progressing as usual. The protracted arrest of the First Class makes it doubtful whether there will be any graduating ball this season, but the ordinary routine of entertainments will go on after the commencement of the Summer encampment. The usual influx of visitors has already begun. Next Fall the new Superintendent will enter upon his duties, and if he is left to himself, there is no doubt that during the ensuing year the Academy will give additional proofs that it is thoroughly sound and effective, whatever clouds may temporarily seem to have rested on its good name and deeds.

Canal Management.

The Democratic Party was floated into power in this State on the waves of free rum; it is likely to float out of power on waves of canal water. "Boss" TWEED, well up in the corruptions of municipal and railroad affairs, cares nothing about the canals. He was willing to allow the revenues of the canals to be appropriated by the country Democracy, known as the "Canal Ring," as their share of the spoil. When he declared himself sick of the interminable debates on the canals, and desired to proceed to business of importance—the consideration of bills for plundering the tax-payers of the City of New-York—he revealed his true opinion, that the canals had no influence on the politics of the State. With the City Charter amended, registry practically abolished, and the Two per Cent. Tax Levy passed, the "Ring" would have unlimited facilities for repeating, and plenty of money for the purposes of corruption. These measures were the only ones to which he attached any importance, and through their instrumentality he hoped to control the State for some time, and nominate the candidates and dictate the policy of the Democratic Party, as he did at Rochester.

There are, however, Democrats outside the Tammany Ring who are ambitious to have a hand in shaping Democratic policy, and they have a better reputation for honesty than Boss TWEED, are his superiors in ability, and refuse to pay homage to Tammany. Senator HARDENBURG is as honest and upright as it is possible for a Democrat to be, and JAMES LORD thinks himself the equal in political sagacity of the "Boss." Senator HARDENBURG sees in himself a probable Governor, and Mr. LORD is anxious to be his own successor in the State Senate. Both these men thought they saw in the canals a means of achieving their ambition. In canal management the Democratic Party had failed so disastrously that, with the single exception of Gov. HOFFMAN, no Democrat could be found adventurous enough to defend it. The Governor, however, in spite of the depleted revenues, and the wretched condition of the canals, still adheres to a vicious system. The reason which he assigned for his recent veto is that the law of 1870 has not had a fair trial. A single year's trial almost rendered direct taxation for the support of the canals necessary, and a second year will accomplish this result. The considerations which Gov. HOFFMAN put forth in this veto were not the ones which prompted it. He has probably been given to understand that the time has not arrived when his supporters can claim for him the Presidential nomination. He has been told that he is a young man, and can afford to wait; and he hopes to spend a few years of this waiting as Governor of the State of New-York. Another term as Governor would relieve the sight of hope deferred. Tammany will keep him in power if possible, for he is a very useful man to them. But to keep him in power, the country must not present to the Convention a candidate who would be likely to win the support of all Rings but that of Tammany. The Canal bill of Senator HARDENBURG received the hearty support of Senator LORD, and was a vast improvement on the present mongrel system of mismanagement. The people would have been grateful for the relief, and the originators of it would have been popular men. Gov. HOFFMAN, in vetoing the bill, thought he was only vetoing the aspirations of Senator HARDENBURG and the influence of Senator LORD. He was ignorant of the feeling of the party in the State, and the "Boss," tired of canals, had not thought it worth while to give him any instructions with reference to the bill. Left to his own guidance, and prompted by his fears, he struck his party a blow which the Rochester Union calls suicidal. In his anxiety to kill off probable candidates, Gov. HOFFMAN has alienated thousands of Democratic votes in the rural districts of the State. Repeating is a strong, but not a safe, reliance. The leaders of the Democratic Party have been very desirous of increasing its strength outside the City of New-York. The Canal bill would have been of great value to them, and could have been pointed at as one promise fulfilled. But in an evil hour, Gov. HOFFMAN was left alone, and he indulged himself in a veto which committed his overburdened party to still further corruption. When the "Boss" sees the Democratic Party washed out of power by the muddy waters of the canals, he will wish that he had paid more attention to "canal talk."

MINOR TOPICS.

It is encouraging to find one Democratic paper in the City that really thinks something ought to be done to "put an end to the riots and murders which make people stand aghast every Monday morning." The Express, which has arrived at this sensible conclusion, proposes the passage of a law "making it a criminal offence to be found drunk on Sunday, punishable with so many days' imprisonment at hard labor." There would be no harm in trying this experiment—in fact we think the suggestion a good one,—though if the law were enforced on the Sunday preceding election, the result would, probably, be a large decrease in the usual Democratic majorities. Had such a proposition emanated from a Republican source, it would certainly have been construed into a "Radical interference in elections;" but, coming from the Express, it must be all right, and we hope the Democracy will adopt the suggestion and enact the law. Meanwhile, would it not be well to enforce the law against Sunday rum-selling, and close the liquor-dens one day in the week? This has been tried and found to answer a very good purpose; for we believe the Police records will show that Sunday drunkenness and crime have increased more than a hundred per cent. since the new Police Commission has allowed the Excise law to remain a dead letter.

At a meeting of the directors of the Viaduct Railroad, yesterday, a little over one million dollars of stock was subscribed, A. T. STEWART heading the list with one thousand shares. The City will now be authorized, according to the terms of the charter, to subscribe and pay over its five million dollars toward the construction of the road. As the lowest estimated cost of the work is sixty millions of dollars, it will require a more liberal subscription from outside capitalists to complete the road, than was indicated by the limited amount of stock taken at the meeting yesterday. That the work will be completed to Forty-second-street in one year, as required by the charter, is hardly within the range of possibility.

A forlorn attempt is being made by some of the Democratic papers to hold the Republican Party responsible for the views of Mr. WENDELL PHILLIPS on the Communists. As Mr. PHILLIPS holds himself responsible to no political party, nor even to the commonest obligations of consistency, the attempt would be a hopeless one, if the Republican Press had not, as it has already, condemned these views of Mr. PHILLIPS unanimously. The nearest approach to the Paris Communists were the rioters of '63, as we have already pointed out; and the Democrats can scarcely transfer the "glory" of burning the Orphan Asylum to Republicans.

We are glad, for the credit of American publishers, to state that the Messrs. APPLETON, though not required so to do by any law, will pay Mr. DARWIN the same percentage on the sales of his recent work, the Descent of Man, as they would to any American author of like standing. Similar just dealing has been shown by this publishing house to Mr. SPENCER, Mr. HUXLEY, and other scientific authors of England, whose works they have reprinted.

The experiment of "minority representation," or, as it is now more generally described, the "free vote," was authorized in regard to a single borough—Bloomsburg—by the Pennsylvania Legislature, in March, 1870. It was applied to the election of municipal councilmen—six in number—and the clause of the act authorizing it runs as follows:

"When six persons are to be chosen, each voter may give one vote to each of the six candidates—one vote and a half to each of four candidates, two votes to each of three, three votes to each of two, or six votes to one."

The experiment was declared by Judge ELWELL, the originator of the scheme, to have cost trouble, and the scheme of the daily press in Bloomsburg, to be a success. They say:

"It is readily comprehended by voters when they come to deposit their ballots. It is at most simple convenience in all cases, and is just as in operation, giving to every considerable minority representation according to its relative strength."

The principle has now been extended by the last Legislature to all the Boroughs contained entirely in one County, and the system is to be organized in accordance with the general law, and by special enactments in a number of other boroughs, including several populous towns. The result will be watched for with interest.

It is unfortunate that the newly-established Government of the District of Columbia was not more prompt and efficient in repressing the riotous demonstrations of the mere sediment in Washington. The first thing that must be done to get any adequate settlement of the vexed questions between capital and labor is to establish a principle that violence must not be resorted to. And however the right to peaceable labor may be violated elsewhere, it ought to have been, and it ought hereafter to be, sternly vindicated at the National Capital.

Harper's Weekly ought to be in everybody's hands. The current number contains one of THAST's best drawings—a drawing which would alone suffice to gain a high reputation for the designer. The Tammany Ring and their supporters are represented as about to take the White House by surprise, and dragging along Gov. HOFFMAN toward the coveted position. TWEED and SWEENY, with big drops of perspiration on their brows, (SWEENY trying to hold Fernando,) are evidently much spent with their efforts. A Catholic dignitary shows great anxiety to set HOFFMAN moved forward; while Mayor HALL, in a fool's cap, JAY GOULD, and other Ring allies are eagerly intent on the success of their chiefs. A crowd of Irish come pouring along in the background. The features of the principal figures are drawn with THAST's peculiar skill, and the picture is altogether one of the happiest he has produced. In addition to this attraction, Harper's contains a pathetic ballad by "WILL. M. CARLETON," illustrated, the beginning of a new story by CHARLES LEVER, and many engravings of great interest and merit.

Before BARNARD, J.—JOHNSON vs. The Kansas Pacific Railroad Company. Referees, Hon. GEORGE T. CURTIS, to hear and determine.

If this is to be Mr. G. T. CURTIS' reward for backing up Mr. DAVID DUDLEY FIELD and the Erie Ring, what is to become of Judge BARNARD's other "legal friends?" The "Judge" must take care that in getting a new ally he does not make enemies of his old ones.

"NO NAME" AT THE FIFTH-AVENUE THEATRE.

"Though we travel the world over," says an American philosopher, "to find the beautiful, we must carry it with us or we find it not." This is an plenty form of the drama finding. No man can point instances merely by pointing on the circles of CLAUDE, but who has journeyed over so far to see them; nor can all men become masters of English composition, even though they give their days and nights to Ancona. There must be some germs of the original, some seeds of spontaneity, or the gracious flower will blossom, or yet will never come to the proper growth and fruitage. Mr. WILKIE COLLINS has travelled industriously up and down the world of letters, and has toiled most creditably in a field for which he has many qualifications. But originality, the power to create possible human beings, to paint their sentiments and passions, and to move them after the manner of nature upon the mimic stage, is not his. Mr. COLLINS has a highly ingenious mind, but its force is far more science rather than for imaginative romance; and "No Name," despite its undeniable cleverness, rather suggests a French charade or a Chinese puzzle, than a riddle of conceivable English life.

Mr. COLLINS appears to be strong enough to know his own weakness. To make up for deficiencies of which we assume him to be conscious, he borrows, with uncommon adroitness, traits and glimpses of character, the effect of which he has admired in others. If his work is, in part, a mosaic, it is a rich, tasteful and attractive one. It does not bore us to look at it, for are its devices so obvious—the usual sin of unskillful artisans—as to afford no intellectual pleasure in tracing and detecting them. "No Name," the play, is hardly as skillfully put together from the story as the story is adapted and condensed from other sources. On the nights of the Fifth-avenue Theatre, where the drama was first given last night, it is attributed to Mr. WILKIE COLLINS and Mr. AUGUSTIN DALY. The name of the latter gentleman is employed, we presume, as a protective measure, and we are able to say, on the whole, that the piece is worth protection. It is neat, compact, and, if sometimes incomprehensible in itself to those familiar with the tale, it is full of interest. The best characters of the novel are introduced, and they are so managed as to attract a due share of interest without detracting from Mr. COLLINS' invariable chef de bataille—his plot.

One main difficulty about this play is the usual drawback of dramas founded on novels. There is a patchy effect at times, not a few abrupt transitions that seem needless, and are occasionally indicrous, and an intermittent dropping and snapping up again of the thread of the fable, which are the reverse of pleasing. All the performers appeared last night to do their best, and that best was in some instances very good indeed. Miss FANNY DAVENPORT made quite a hit in Mrs. Wragge, and deserves credit for disguising her pretty face, as an artist in such a part should do. She did not do all with the part that possibly might be done with it, but the effect was quite clever notwithstanding. Mr. LEWIS seemed nervous and ill at ease in Captain Wragge, and his spasmodic monotony of style is now and then out of place in a character whose smooth, imperturbable assurance is probably his strongest characteristic. Miss MORRIS was at first much too elaborate and artificial as the heroine, Magdalen Vanstone. She subsequently acted with great energy, and elicited vigorous applause, especially in the third act. This lady has some provincialisms of speech that one would be wise at once to correct. She mispronounces a few words in a way peculiarly unfortunate, and has too much real talent to let us hear such slips without regret, or pass them unnoticed. The George Bentham of Mr. HARKINS is even and respectable, and Mr. PARKES tries with considerable success to realize Noel Vanstone. Some of the passages of Miss Lecount—more particularly the unspoken ones—are carefully and effectively rendered by Miss KATE NEWTON. Mr. DAVIDGE is hearty and funny as Admiral Bartram, and Mrs. GILBERT takes her customary artist-like pains with Miss Garth.

In general, it may justly be said that the acting and the scenery of "No Name," which latter are very pretty, are at least good enough for the play. A novel of salient character, such for example, as Oliver Twist or Nicholas Nickleby, can be dramatically illustrated by bits and glimpses with a good chance of success. So to treat a novel like No Name is more difficult. As with a geometrical theorem, the omission of any part of the demonstration leaves an unsatisfactory impression on the mind, and we do not feel justified in such a case in writing after it "Q. E. D." We are nevertheless free to admit that considering the obstacles in the way of the prosperous dramatic handling of such a story, Mr. COLLINS and Mr. DALY have done very well indeed, and certainly appeared last night to delight an audience which, but for the pouring rain, would have been as large as it was enthusiastic.

PROSPECT PARK RACES.

Another Day's Capital Sport—Time, Betting, the Winners of the 2:40 Purse, and Funny Form of the 2:24 Purse—Trials and Troubles of the Sporting Men.

Despite the threatening aspect of the weather, yesterday morning, there was a large attendance on the second day of the meeting at the Prospect Park Fair Grounds. The racing was more exciting than that of the first day, and the entertainment was varied at the close by a heavy shower, which drenched all except those who came in close carriages. The rain came down in torrents and flooded the track, and continued so long that there were entertained that today's sport would be interrupted. If such is the case, notice will be given at the forfeit on the New-York side. The track, yesterday, was in prime condition, and the time made was very fast—one of the winners spoiling his record—Thomas Jefferson coming down to 2:25½, which was a creditable performance for a horse that never beat 2:30 before. Funny Form (which, by the way, is a fit name for the horse) has unfortunate break-down.

THE RACINGS.

The first event of the day was for a purse of $1,000 for horses that have never beaten 2:30—$600 to first, $300 to second, $100 to third, and $50 to fourth. There were nine entries in this race: D. SAMPSON's ch. m. Dunlee Maid; PARKER SHAFFNER'S br. m. Lady Augusta; A. PATTERSON'S b. m. Lady Hogan; M. BODEN'S s. c. Prince; O. E. HICKOK'S b. m. Modoc; J. LOVETT'S s. m. New Berlin Girl; HIRAM WOODRUFF'S br. m. Minnie Top; Prince; THOS. CARPENTER'S br. c. Thomas Jefferson, and J. J. BOWEN'S b. c. Sheppard Knapp. Jefferson was the favorite before the race, selling in the pools at the following rates:

Jefferson	$100	$120	$130	$200
Prince	100	110	125	200
Field	35	30	25	15

The contest had fair to be an exciting one at the end of the first heat, but Jefferson won the race with apparent ease. The starters were Modoc, Prince, Sheppard Knapp, New-Berlin Girl and Thomas Jefferson.

FIRST HEAT.—A good start was effected at the second attempt, New-Berlin Girl having a little the advantage. Sheppard Knapp and Jefferson followed. Prince went up before reaching the half-mile pole, Knapp and Modoc followed suit, but Jefferson appeared to gain rather than lose by the move. They passed the quarter-pole in 36¼ seconds, in the following order: Modoc first, by a length; Sheppard Knapp second, on the heels of Modoc; Jefferson third, and New-Berlin Girl, who fouled also up. Prince went quite lame before reaching the half mile, and was unable to do better than hold on to third place for the rest of the heat. The half-mile pole was reached in 1:12¾. Modoc led all the way to the three-quarter pole, when Thomas Jefferson started a rush for the front, and came within an ace of getting it, as Modoc was up twice, and crossed the score on a run. Although Modoc showed a little in front, the result was declared a dead heat. Time—2:30¾. After this heat Jefferson became a still greater favorite, selling in the pools at five to one against the field, with Jefferson all the way before the two things ridden nearly all the way, and Jefferson winning by a neck only.

THIRD HEAT.—Knapp had the lead, Jefferson second and Prince third. Prince seemed to have distanced his horse in a mile and a half, besides the losing a couple of lengths by the three-quarter pole, and Jefferson, who had been playing second fiddle, made a spurt and came in winner of the heat by half a length.

FOURTH HEAT.—Jefferson was now a hot favorite, and but few sporting men were disposed to part their money against him at any odds. In the heat Jefferson lost a length at the start and kept it throughout the race, coming in three lengths ahead, winner of the heat and race. Prince did his best to take this heat, trotting a good second, but was not in the sight with to win.

The following is the summary of the race:

PROSPECT PARK COURSE, June 7, 1871.—Purse $1,000, for horses that have never beaten 2:30; $600 to first, $300 to second, $100 to third, and $50 to fourth.

Second Heat	37½	1:12¾	2:32¾
Third Heat	37½	1:14¾	2:27¾

SECOND RACE.

The race was for a purse of $1,000 for horses that have never beaten 2:24—$600 to first, $300 to second, $100 to third, and $50 to fourth. Twelve horses were entered for this purse, but four were drawn before the first heat. The starters were M. RODER's ch. m. Purdy, J. LOVETT's b. m. Lady Kate, H. W. HOWE's blk. m. Belle Morrell, J. MURPHY's b. m. Lady Sears, G. W. SMALLEY'S blk. g. Othello, J. CHAMPLAIN'S s. g. Lewis Baker, formerly Billy Burns, and J. J. BOWEN's b. m. Jennie.

Purdy was the favorite in this race, as will be seen by the following pools sold before the first heat:

Purdy	$100	$200	$275
Fanny Fern	100	175	225
Jennie	25	50	120
The Field	60	75	100

In the first heat Jennie took the lead at the start, and, except for a short distance at the quarter-pole, held it to the finish, winning by nearly two lengths. Baker Morrell second, Sears third, and Funny Fern fourth.

In the second heat Jennie was looked upon more favorably and sold at about the same rate as Purdy and Fanny Fern. The interest in this heat was centred on the trotting between Jennie and Purdy. The latter taking the lead at the quarter-pole, was never headed, while Jennie crossed a good second. Funny Fern was third home in. When time was called for the third heat, it was announced that Purdy had been drawn, having been taken suddenly with paralysis. This caused a great commotion among those who had money laid on her to win. The Jennie was a strong favorite under way in this heat, no less than seven false starts having been made. Fanny Fern was third at the start, but showed in front at the half-mile pole, and keeping up the pace, won the heat by two lengths; Lady Sears second, Jennie third. In the fourth heat Fanny Fern first, Fanny Fern second, and Jennie third all the way to the stand. Fanny Fern now began to display her staying powers, and won the fifth and sixth heats with the greatest ease. Lady Rose, Lewis Baker and Belle Morrell were ruled out of the sixth heat, not having won a position. The frosty weather, which had kept the field back, materially affected the time. The following is a summary of the second race:

SAME DAY AND TRACK—$1,000 for horses that have never trotted better than 2:24; $600 to first, $300 to second, $100 to third, and $50 to fourth.

E. C. White's ch. m. Fanny Fern	4	2	1	1

TROTTING TODAY.

The trotting today will no doubt prove the most exciting of the meeting, the first race will bring together the famous Ryan Goldsmith Maid, American Girl, Lucy and George Palmer, the first being the winner of the fast race at Fleetwood, and the Girl being the winner of a similar race at Philadelphia. Pools were sold last evening at the following figures:

Goldsmith Maid	$100	$100	$200
American Girl	25	50	65
The Field	5	10	30

The second race is for horses of the 2:40 class, in which there are fourteen entries, viz.: Marshall, Thomas Jefferson, Indiana, Fleetwood, Sarah Jane, Young Bruno, Nestor, Lady Murphy, Lot Gray, Heathen Chinee, Suse, Major Burt, Sea Foam and Kate Darcy, the pools on which sold as follows:

Fleetwood	$50	$115	$95	$80
Sea Foam	40	65	45	30
Lottery	15	21	18	10
The Field	19	18	13	10

PREPARING FOR THE RACES.

Sunrise at Jerome Park—The Favorites in Training—The Time Made in the Trial Races—Scenes and Incidents at the Course and on the Road.

The most enjoyable part of the day at Jerome Park for a month previous to one of the great meetings, is from 4 to 7 o'clock in the morning. The owners of the horses and all those peculiarly interested in the equine contests are to be found either at the Club-house or at the stables, while the favorites and their merits and condition is almost the sole theme of discussion. A novel sense of pleasure can be derived from an early morning drive to the course, but there are certain conditions that must be complied with. In the first place an early start is necessary, if one desires to fully enjoy the trip, and see all there is to be seen.

Four o'clock is about the right hour, and the cool air of the morning will be found delightful and exhilarating, while the sight of a veritable sunrise will be something to boast of for a year or two at least in these days of late rising and sluggard habits. All along the route, in the avenue, the Park, and on the "lane," light wagons and fast steppers fall into line, and unless you are behind a trotter, and a good one too, you will soon be left behind. All are going up to see the racers take their morning spin, and the advance guard generally reach the gates, dash through them, and draw up in front of the Club-house before 5 o'clock. Some are interested in the horses in training from ownership, others like the early morning air, are enthusiasts in horse racing, and drive out without any selfish interest, while perhaps the larger number are registered in Mr. KELLY's betting books and are a little anxious to see how Harry Bassett and Frank Rose are looking, or whether Heimbold is going steadily enough to win the "cup." These early birds are dangerous men in the betting fraternity. They follow a horse entered for a race, up to the hour of starting almost, keeping a careful watch upon his condition to guide them in their desire investments in front of the post-stand. If the favorite is over so slightly "wrong," they are sure to know it, and with such knowledge, gained, perhaps, on the very morning of a race, they have frequently emptied the pockets of less shrewd operators in pools in the easiest possible manner. It has even been said that dishonorable and unscrupulous men have bribed the little jockeys, or attempted to bribe them, to throw races; but to the credit of the latter, let it be said, there is little evidence of the schemers' success in such dirty work. The owners in the first place guard against anything of the kind as far as possible, by making no selection of a jockey to ride in any particular race up to the last day. This course can generally be pursued successfully, as there are several riders attached to each stable, all of whom are accustomed to the different horses.

At 6 o'clock on a pleasant morning sixty or seventy horses, blanketed to the eyes, will be found walking up and down or slowly galloping around the beautiful stretch of track. At the Club-house the sleepy cooks and darkies are just rubbing their eyes, but one of the latter can always be found ready to earn a stamp by holding your horses. On race days these same sable attendants will look at nothing less than a dollar greenback for the same service, but at present trade is dull, and anything in the shape of money is acceptable. After an early-mile ride the first inquiry is naturally for breakfast, but you are told you can get nothing for an hour, and stroll out perforce to see the horses and visit the stables. Stepping out on the broad piazza, the scene in the morning sunlight is charming. Little flecks of mist are just vanishing from the hill-tops, the dew-laden foliage sparkles and glitters with every breath of air, while the columns of lazy smoke, rising here and there from crests of trees, indicate that the inhabitants of this beautiful valley of Westchester are awake to the duties and cares of a new day. Looking down on the track beneath, the long strings of horses enliven the scene, but they hardly seem awake, while the little riders, but half-aroused, shiver in the fresh breeze. Both men and horses begin to feel the effect of the warm sunbeams very soon, however, and the beautiful limbs of the animals beat the level track in faster rhythm. Then one or two of the horses are stripped, and sent away for a trial spin, their owners being present and anxious to see whether they are really up to the mark or not. Pretty little contests ensue, and the sport really becomes exciting. Watches are pulled from every vest-pocket, and the time is taken as carefully as on a race day. Heimbold, that noted son of Australian, was sent two miles at top speed on Saturday in 3:38¾, and Hamburg, his stable companion, covered the same distance in 3:34½. Neither performance was very satisfactory, but they will both do better if there is any necessity for greater speed at the final trial. (Col. MCDANIELS' colt, Harry Bassett, considered the most promising horse at the course, was also speeded. He is prime favorite for the Belmont Stakes, and his mile and a half run was watched with much interest. After going a mile with his blankets on he was stripped, and in company with Idaho galloped slowly down to the half-mile pole. At the word they were off like the wind, and another fleet racer joining in as they dashed past the grand stand, the race became very exciting. The favorite soon led both his competitors and finishing the first mile in 1:46½, sped on to the close with a stride that was magnificent, making the mile and a half in 2:41, or at the rate of 1:47 to the mile. This, on the Jerome Park track, which is very slow even when in the best condition, is an astonishing performance, and will make the performer a greater favorite than ever for the races in which he is entered.

Mr. SWIGERT's chestnut colt, by Asteroid, is considered Harry Bassett's most formidable competitor for the "Belmont," and those who are interested in his success will be pleased to know that in a trial spin a day or two since he very nearly equaled the above performance of the favorite. Frank Rose, another fine horse, and at one time a prominent candidate for the "Belmont," is sick, and will not run at the meeting. He is an Tom PATTERSON's string, and caught cold while on the route from Mobile. The other prominent entries for the Belmont are Hampton, a fine chestnut colt by Censor, dam by Glencoe; Wanderer, a Lexington colt, dam by Vandal, stable companion with Stockwood; Edwin, a chestnut colt, owned by Gov. BOWIE; Tubman, a fine bay colt by War Dance; Eolus, a Lexington colt, and a good one; Gibraltar, by Jack Malone, dam Delia, and his stable companion Dunster, a bay colt by Bonnie Scotland, dam Magenta; Joe Elliott, by Asteroid, dam by Sovereign; Nelly Gray, a gray filly by Commodore, dam by Sovereign, and several others yet to arrive.

The various stables whose representatives are to run in the Spring meeting, or more properly the Summer meeting, have come together in force from the North, South, East and West, and the racing promises to be more exciting than anything ever witnessed in this country. In addition to the stables that have been at the course all the Spring four stables from Kentucky have arrived—Mr. SWIGERT's, Gen. BURGOYNE's, A. KEENE RICHARDS' and GEO. RICE's. Thos. DOSWELL's string are also on hand, and AUGUST BELMONT's celebrated racers have arrived, consisted of Glenelg, Kingfisher, and the imported three-year olds By the Sea and The Nort. The former ranks high in the betting for the "Belmont." The stables expected today are those of Mr. CAMERON, Mr. MORRIS, Messrs. SANFORD, HUNTER & TRAVERS, and Messrs. GRINSTEAD, WOODFORD & SPRINGFIELD. Altogether there will be 150 race horses at the course next week, representing in value over a quarter million of dollars.

By 9 o'clock in the morning the early rollicks are over, and returning to the Club-house, a smoking breakfast is found prepared for the visitor. While this is being enjoyed, nothing but "horse talk" is heard on all sides, and the favorites are discussed and admired for the hundredth time. With a satisfied appetite and your feeling that a good day's work has been done, the ride to town is as enjoyable as the outward trip. On Sundays, when gentlemen are not hurried off to business, they go out later, inspect the horses in the stables instead of on the track, and sometimes remain to see the evening gallops. Little lunch parties enjoy themselves in the Club-house at all hours. All sorts of wagers are laid on the results of stakes and handicaps, and no more solid enjoyment can be found anywhere.

Next Saturday the sport will begin, and a few days more will create new favorites, or confirm opinions regarding the old ones. The thousands of dollars laid on the different races will have changed hands, and the long strings of horses with their train of attendants will be off for Long Branch or Saratoga.

COLLEGE COMMENCEMENTS.

Programmes of Exercises at the Rochester University—Commencements at Union College, Dartmouth College, the Michigan and Virginia Universities.

The anniversary exercises of the Rochester University occur this year two week earlier than heretofore. This is a decided change for the better. The exercises will now begin on the evening of June 28, with a sermon at the First Baptist Church before the Young Men's Christian Association of the University by Prof. GALUSHA ANDERSON, of Newton Theological Seminary. On the Monday evening following the Dewey prize declamations will be given at Corinthian Hall. On Tuesday evening the oration and poem before the Alumni will be delivered at Corinthian Hall, the oration by Rev. EZEKIEL W. MUNDY, of Syracuse, and the poem by WILLIAM H. ALLEN, of Pekin, Ill. The oration and poem cannot fail to be well and strongly written, Mr. MUNDY graduated with honor. Mr. ALLEN is familiar with a range of literature, and an original and humorous writer. On Wednesday, June 28, commencement takes place at Corinthian Hall, at 9½ o'clock. The present class is one which embraces more than an average share of talent, and their orations will prove interesting. The indications are that commencement this year will be highly interesting, and as largely attended as usual.

The programme for Commencement week at Union College, this year, is as follows: On Sunday, June 25, at 4 P. M., the baccalaureate sermon by President ANGELL. At 7½ P. M., Rev. GEORGE ALEXANDER, D. D., will address the Theological Society. On Monday, June 26, at 2 P. M., Class Day exercises of the Senior Class. At 7½ P. M., Prize speaking by members of the Junior and Sophomore Classes. Class Day at Rutgers Female College.

The Alumnæ Association of Rutgers Female College celebrated their anniversary, yesterday afternoon, by appropriate exercises. The presiding officer was Miss G. R. CHELLBORG, A. B., of the class of '70. After the opening anthem had been sung, prayer was made, and H. M. PIERCE, LL.D., President of the College, delivered an address of welcome to the Association. A paper on "The Impediments to Intellectual Cultivation of Women" was read by Miss HERRIETTA B. CHURCH before the N. N. Z. Society, which treated the subject in an original and forcible manner, and was listened to with great interest. During the exercises several songs were sung by the Junior Class.

The "Salutatory" in the Class-day exercise was delivered by Miss FLORENCE E. HOOT; the "Class History," by Miss HATTIE K. BRYAN, and the "Prophetic Future of the Class," by Miss AUGUSTA BRIGGS. Miss ALICE T. B. MCINTIRE made the presentation of the keys of the Graduating Class to the Junior Class, which were accepted by Miss EMMA T. HOLDEN. Vocal and instrumental music by Misses THOMS, ASTEN, BRYAN, MCINTIRE and HOOT greatly added to the interest of the occasion; and too much praise could not be given to the admirable manner in which Miss MARY ALICE BROWN acted as presiding officer. The college chapel, in which the exercises were held, was handsomely decorated, and the audience was very large, consisting almost entirely of ladies. The Commencement exercises will take place this afternoon at the Fourth Presbyterian Church, on Thirty-fourth-street.

THE FREEMASONS.

Proceedings of the Grand Lodge Yesterday—Important Reports of Committees—The Quebec Question Decided—History of the Case—Other Business Transacted.

The Grand Lodge of Masons resumed its session at Apollo Hall, yesterday morning. A number of resolutions were then offered and referred to the proper committees. The most important of these was one presented by W. Bro. THORNE, in substance as follows: "That the Legislature of the State be petitioned to amend the act incorporating the Board of Trustees of the Hall and Asylum Fund that said Board should hereafter consist of ten members, namely: Master, Deputy Master, Senior and Junior Wardens, and Secretary of the Grand Lodge, together with five representatives of the said Grand body, to be annually elected."

R. W. GEO. H. RAYMOND, Grand Lecturer, in presenting his fifth annual report, in closing, said, that during the year he had been fraternally assisted in his labors by the advice and counsel of the Grand Master, and, he added, it was the first time in five years' service that such or any assistance had been rendered the Grand Lecturer by the Grand Lodge. The report set forth that the standard work was becoming popular, not only throughout this State but in others, and that during the past year, at the request of the Grand Lodge of New-Jersey, it had been exemplified before that Grand body. Since the last session of the Grand Lodge, the majority of lodges in the State have been visited, also the lodges working under dispensation. These were found in good condition, and the granting of warrants was recommended. In addition, a number of brothers desiring to form lodges had been instructed at Highland, Ulster County, and at Nyack, Rockland County. Dispensations in both instances were also recommended. The following assistant grand lecturers have acted during the year, under regular appointment of R. W. Brother Raymond: First Judicial District—W. Wesley, B. Church. Second District—W. O. D. M. Baker. Third District—W. Levi H. Burton. Fourth District—W. James T. Isham. Fifth District—W. James E. Hall. Sixth District—W. Hiram Edgerton. Seventh District—W. Wm. P. Durant. Eighth District—W. John C. Graves. And the following under special appointment: R. W. Charles B. Wade, R. W. L. E. Barker, W. C. P. Clark, and W. Sanford J. Thatcher.

R. W. F. W. HEURING presented the annual report of the Masonic Board of Relief of this City, showing that the total amount of money received by the Board during the year had been $6,621 59; total expenditures, $5,785 68; balance, $835 11. The classification of sums expended for the relief of Masons from the localities named is of interest, and is as follows: England, $770 99; Ireland, $413 70; Scotland, $302 25; Germany, $10; Holland, $118 50; Sweden, $10; Italy, $53; Portugal, $40; Brazil, $20; Cuba, $100; Canada, $44 40; New-Brunswick, $38 30; New-Granada, $10; Nova Scotia, $5; Alabama, $50; California, $55; Connecticut, $105; District of Columbia, $20; Florida, $10; Georgia, $25; Illinois, $48; Iowa, $2; Kentucky, $10; Louisiana, $46; Maryland, $31; Massachusetts, $155 25; Minnesota, $20 45; New-York City, $1,364 23; New-York State, $675 25; North Carolina, $3; Ohio, $40; Pennsylvania, $53 50; Rhode Island, $15; South Carolina, $20; Tennessee, $20; Virginia, $10, and Washington Territory, $5. Total charity fund, $4,944 15.

During the morning session R. W. E. E. THORNE was received by the Grand Lodge as the representative of the Grand Lodges of Ohio and Minnesota, near the Grand Lodge of New-York. The Grand honors were duly accorded, and addresses appropriate to the occasion made.

The M. W. Grand Master announced that R. W. SYDNEY E. JOHNSON had been appointed by the Grand Master of Canada in Canada as the representative of that Grand body near that of New-York, and remarked that it was a gratifying fact that the judgment of the Grand Lodge of this State was approved by other Grand Lodges by the appointment of its officers to act as representatives near this jurisdiction.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At the afternoon session of the Grand Lodge the business transacted was mainly routine, all the resolutions offered being duly referred. At the annual sessions the greater portion of the work, as is usual in legislative bodies, is performed in Committee, and as the reports are not ready until the last days of the communication, the most important matters to be acted upon do not, before this time, come before the lodge. At the opening of the session considerable interesting business was, however, disposed of. R. W. and Rev. JOHN G. WEBSTER presented the report of the Special Committee on Deceased Brethren, named in the Grand Master's address, and in accordance with the recommendations therein contained, it was ordered that a resolution of condolence on the part of the Grand Lodge be transmitted to the respective lodges to which the deceased brothers belonged, and that in honor of each one a memorial page be set apart in the printed transactions of next year. The names are as follows: M. W. MORDECAI MYERS, R. W. and Rev. FRANCIS H. JOHNSON, R. W. JOHN P. JENKINS, and Bro. GEO. R. JACKSON. On motion, the name of W. R. T. WINKLE, Master of Architect Lodge, deceased during the year, was added to the list.

R. W. E. P. BREED presented the report of the Committee on Foreign Correspondence, which, after some discussion, was, on motion, received. The report is a pamphlet of 100 printed pages, in which the status of Masonry throughout the world is given in detail. To the report a resolution was appended in relation to the Grand Lodge of Quebec, advising that the Grand Lodge of New-York extend to the Grand Lodge of Quebec, in the Province of Quebec, Canada, full and fraternal recognition as a regular Grand Lodge. The story of the differences existing between the two Grand Lodges of Canada extends over too long a period, and would occupy too great space for reproduction at this time. Suffice it to say that the whole question has been thoroughly reviewed by the Committee, and from the investigation made the above conclusion is arrived at. The Quebec Grand Lodge has heretofore been recognized by Grand Lodges in the United States and by the Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia. Of the States bordering on Canada, only New-York and Vermont, so yet, withhold recognition. Before acting in the matter the main record of the facts bearing on the question was read by direction of the Grand Master, of which the following is a summary, existing prior to the formation of the Grand Lodge of Quebec, and of the acts of Lodges, and brethren forming such Grand Lodges:

"From 1855 to July 1, 1867, the present Provinces of Ontario and Quebec were one Province; on said last-mentioned day the Province of Canada was severed, and it became two distinct and separate Provinces, as separate and distinct as two Territories, if not as two States, of the United States. At the time of such severance of the Province of Canada, the Grand Lodge of Canada claimed and exercised a quasi jurisdiction over the whole of the territory included in the severed Province. For a period of twelve years there had been, however, existing in said Province, with the consent of said Grand Lodge of Canada, certain Lodges owing obedience to and under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of England and governed more immediately by a Provincial Grand Lodge of England, and there had been continued to exist in said Province, without objection on the part of the said Grand Lodge of Canada, certain other Lodges under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodges of Scotland and Ireland. Such a state of Masonic affairs is almost entirely unknown to the doctrine of Grand Lodge occupation, as understood in the United States; and if the decision upon the question is made in accordance with the rules of Grand Lodge jurisdiction obtaining everywhere outside of Continental Europe, can there be any doubt that it is evident that neither was the Province of Canada before July 1, 1867, nor have the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec since that time, been legally occupied by the Grand Lodge of Canada? The Grand Lodge of Canada has not asserted, or attempted to assert supreme and exclusive jurisdiction, either over the Province of Canada or the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, and for this it is entirely at fault; it should, if it claimed such jurisdiction, have long ago given notice that the Lodges existing in said Province and in said Provinces under the Grand Lodges of England, Scotland and Ireland, must give in their adhesion to the Grand Lodge of Canada, within a certain reasonable time stated, or all Masonic intercourse between such Lodges and the Lodges under the Grand Lodge of Canada would be interdicted. On the state of facts thus developed, the question arises as to the legality of the formation of the Grand Lodge of Quebec, and its claim to recognition."

The resolution appended to the report was subsequently unanimously adopted, and the Grand Lodge, rising, received the new sister Grand Lodge of Quebec with the grand honors.

REPORTS.

R. W. E. E. THORNE presented report of Committee on Warrants, in which it was recommended that warrants to the seven new Lodges now working under dispensation be issued. Also, that a new warrant be issued to Hillsdale Lodge, in place of old warrant destroyed by fire. Report received and adopted. The Committee in an additional report referring to that portion of the Grand Master's address relating to the issuing of dispensations for new Lodges, concurred in the same, and recommended that no new dispensations, except in special instances, be granted, the number of Lodges being already deemed sufficiently large. The report was received.

R. W. E. L. JUDSON presented report from Committee of Finance, which was adopted and made a regulation of the Grand Lodge, to the effect that henceforth all moneys received by the Grand Secretary or Grand Treasurer should be deposited in a banking institution designated by the Grand Master, and in the name of the said officers and their successors in office.

During the session a resolution introduced in regard to certain words in the ritual deemed by certain masons sectarian, and asking the Grand Lodge to take action on the subject, occasioned considerable debate. The question is one which has been brought up each year for a number past, and the matter was finally referred to the Committee on Work and Lectures.

Among the resolutions offered was one donating the sum of $1,000 to the Washington Monument Association, of Washington, D. C., also referred.

M. W. DANIEL H. BRUEN, Grand Master of New-Jersey, was introduced and received with the grand honors. On motion of R. W. H. BROWN, it was ordered that the Past Worshipful Masters of Lodges who have served during the current year be presented to the Grand Secretary, and that there be prepared a memorial page of the proceedings of the Grand Lodge. On motion, the Lodge then adjourned until 4 A. M. today (Wednesday).

OBITUARY.

M. Aime Maillart, Composer.

M. AIME MAILLART, a well-known French composer, is dead. His decease occurred at Moulins, in France. M. MAILLART was born in 1817, and in 1841, at the concours of the French Institute, he triumphed over his classmates of the Conservatoire, and was awarded the "Prix de Rome." M. MAILLART'S most successful works were the opera comique of "Lara," founded on Lord BYRON's poem and sung at the Paris Opera Comique, and "Les Dragons de Villars," represented at the Theatre Lyrique and heard in New-York about three years ago during an opera bouffe season at the Fifth-avenue Theatre.

Gen. Thomas J. Rodman.

Gen. THOMAS J. RODMAN, a distinguished ordnance officer of the United States Army, and for several years past in charge of the Arsenal and other Government works at Rock Island, died on Tuesday morning. Gen. RODMAN entered the Military Academy at West Point in 1837, being appointed from Indiana, his native State. He graduated in 1841 as brevet Second Lieutenant, and saw service in the Mexican war. Being subsequently attached to the Ordnance Corps, Lieut. RODMAN invented the famous gun known by his name, and so extensively used in the volunteer artillery during the late war. For his services in the field and Ordnance Department Lieut. RODMAN was rapidly promoted in the regular army until he reached the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, and was also brevetted a Brigadier-General. He also held the rank of Major-General in the volunteer service.

The New-Jersey Railroad Company in Favor of the Proposed Lease.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the New-Jersey Railroad and Transportation Company took place yesterday at the Company's office, Exchange-place, Jersey City. The President, Mr. ASHBEL WELSH, made a statement of the affairs of the Company, representing that they were in a prosperous condition.

Mr. P. S. DURYEA, Chairman of the Committee appointed at a former meeting on a closer consolidation, reported that after due and mature consideration of the subject they could not but advise the acceptance of the offer of the Pennsylvania road. On the argument on the resolution Judge BLACK, of Mount Holly, made a speech, strongly opposing the lease. He thought the control of $100,000,000 gave too great power to one corporation. A corporation having such a power would scarcely be amenable to the law, and before they knew it they would find themselves in the clutches of this immense power, the contract broken, and no redress. He was desirous of going into the Courts and during it it decided whether a man's property could be taken without his consent. He should not willingly release his.

Messrs. DAVID HAYES, J. G. STEVENS, and DANIEL DODD then addressed the meeting in favor of the lease, after which Mr. DURYEA read the following ratifying resolution:

Resolved, That the stockholders of the New-Jersey Railroad and Transportation Company, being present at their annual meeting, express their entire and hearty approval of the Joint Board in having agreed upon the terms of the lease in perpetuity of their property, franchises, and the Navigation Company, on the basis of annual dividends of ten per cent to their stockholders.

After a personal explanation by Judge BLACK, Mr. STEVENS addressed the meeting in favor of the resolution. He said they would, in case of the lease, have assured to them annually ten per cent on their stock. This could not be induced in any other way. More would be competition, and vigorous competition. This would be doubtlessly called a bugbear by the opponents of the lease. The Newark and New-York Road had been called on, but it was now taking annually $250,000 from the main connections, and would increase. This consolidation would do away with the immense salaries paid to officers in many cases, $5,000 and $10,000 being paid.

The resolution was carried, the number of voters opposed being apparently very few, probably not more than one-tenth of the entire number. The following gentlemen were then elected directors for the ensuing year: Dudley S. Gregory, Henry R. Remsen, Hamilton Fish, A. L. Dennis, George R. Chetwood, M. A. Howell, P. Suydam, Nehemiah Perry and J. W. Scudder. The meeting then adjourned.

TEXAS POLITICS.

An Explanation of the Present Curious Condition of Affairs—The Question of an Election.

From the New-Orleans Republican.

We observe that there is an important question now agitating the people of Texas, our sister State. It is relative to the proper time for holding the general election. The Constitution provides for annual sessions of the Legislature; that the members of the House of Representatives shall be chosen by the qualified electors for the term of two years from the day of general election; elections for Senators throughout the State shall be general, and shall be regulated by law.

The first Legislature was elected in pursuance of an order of the military commander. The election was begun on the first Monday of July, 1869, and a strict construction of the Constitution vacates their positions in July, 1871.

The first session was called by the Governor, and was begun April 26, 1870. There had been a previous meeting of the Legislature called by the Commanding General for the purpose of electing Senators to Congress, but no general legislation was had. The Legislature was considered provisional in its nature, and it had been held by the jurists of the State that it was a part, and a very necessary part of the plan of reconstruction, and peculiarly identified with the duty of organizing the machinery of the new State Government. In pursuance of this idea, the Legislature, in August, enacted a general election law, which provided that the first election under it shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1870. This extends the time to more than two years from the day of the preceding general election, viz.: July, 1869. But there is no difficulty in this regard about any officers of the State except members of the Legislature, of whom we have elected officers at all, which nearly doubles as the Texas Constitution provides for all officers to hold their offices until properly relieved by their duly elected successors. But the point of anxious doubt lies in the query, Can a legislative body perpetuate its own term of existence beyond that plainly pointed out by the Constitution, by postponing the day for electing their successors for more than the two years? We notice that the Democrats of Texas, who are out of office, unanimously hold the negative of this proposition, and many of the Republicans concur with them. We believe, for to take the same view with the modification that we do not see any necessity to change the day of the election as it now stands on the Texas statute books. The inevitable consequence of failing to provide for an election will be, in our judgment, by construction of the Supreme Court of the United States, and one-third of the Senate. A legislative session in 1872 will be impracticable, but no great harm can come of it, as no penalty whatever is imposed by the Constitution for a failure at any time to hold an annual session. As no laws will be passed, no question or dispute can arise concerning their validity.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

The sale of the Dyckman estate at the Exchange yesterday, (June 7,) drew together a very large number of purchasers and others, among whom were some of our largest real estate investors. The interest manifested in the proceedings was maintained throughout the sale, and the prices realized were very good. A detailed report will be found below, with names of purchasers appended. The auction was ably conducted by V. K. STEVENSON & SON; B. F. FAIRCHILD, auctioneer. Of the 543 plots offered, 224 were disposed of. The remainder of the property will be offered today.

In addition to the above, JOSEPH MCGUIRE, by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, under the direction of GRATZ NATHAN, Esq., referee, sold one lot with small building thereon, on the south side of Sixty-fourth-street, west of Tenth-avenue, lot 25 by 100.5, sold for $6,000 to plaintiff in action.

The suburban auction of lots on Tuesday, by S. DEREME & CO., at Mount Vernon, was not attended with particular success, but few persons being present, and the property was withdrawn.

Today, at the Exchange, several sales are advertised to take place, beside the continuation of the Dyckman estate. Important suburban auctions will also be held by A. J. BLEECKER, SON & CO., at Fordham, Westchester County, and by LAWRE E. WOOD, at West Berzon, Jersey City, both sales on the ground, the former at 1 P. M. and the latter at 2½ P. M.

WASHINGTON.

How Gen. Sherman Besieged Three Big Indians.

The Rebs-Best Inspectors—Customs Decision—The Civil Service—Miscellaneous.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—May 28 and a few days preceding Gen. SHERMAN was at Fort Sill, Indian Territory, and he gives an account of the capture of some of the Indians engaged in the late raid into Texas, in which seven men were killed and a corn train plundered. Saturday, the 17th, a large party of Indians came in for their annual rations, and SATANTA, a notoriously bad Indian, not only admitted to the Indian agent, Mr. TANTON, that he headed the raid into Texas, but boasted of it. Mr. TANTON brought him to Gen. SHERMAN at Gen. GRIERSON'S head-quarters, where SATANTA again made the same admission, varying the details of the story, as he began to see the deed was not one to be proud of. Gen. SHERMAN told Mr. TANTON, the agent, to say whether SATANTA should be arrested on the spot, and Mr. TANTON answered that he desired and requested the arrest to be made. Accordingly, after a little manœuvring to catch all those present who were engaged in the affair, SATANTA, SATANK and EIG TEEN were arrested and are in close confinement. They will be carefully guarded and turned over to Gen. MCKENZIE to be taken back to Texas and tried by civil authority. The Indians begged to be shot on the spot, fearing they would be lynched or mobbed, which they dread terribly, and which will be prevented in any event. Gen. SHERMAN further demanded of the Kiowas the forty-one mules captured from the same train, and while the discussion of the proposition was going on LONG WOLF made another demonstration that almost resulted in a general fight. One Indian was killed. Several shots were fired, and the Indian camps stampeded. Gen. SHERMAN writes that in all these cases the Indian agent has been considered and his wishes have been the rule of conduct. He lays great stress on the necessity for the trial and punishment of the three who are arrested, and says if they go back to their tribe free no life will be safe. He favors the strictly legal course, which the Indians dread far more than the shorter verdict of the bullet.

THE STEAM-BOAT ACT.

The Board of Steam-boat Inspectors met for the first time today, but accomplished nothing beyond a reading of the law, and a general talk upon the course to be pursued. Committees will probably be arranged, to which will be referred different portions of the law. Special attention was attracted to the portion of the law relative to the carrying of petroleum, and the arrangement of heating apparatus.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

The Civil Service Commissioners are not simply charged with the duty of establishing, with the approval of the President, rules for the admission of persons to the civil service, but with the full execution of the law in accordance with which they are appointed. The law authorizes the President to ascertain the fitness of candidates for the civil service, and also to appoint persons to make the inquiries needful for that purpose. The appointment of the Commissioners recites the law, and says they are designated to carry its provisions into effect. This makes their authority more ample than has been supposed.

THE ARCTIC STEAMER.

The Polaris went on a short trial trip down the Potomac and return today. It is announced that she will cast from the navy-yard for New-York at high tide to-morrow.

PERSONAL.

Secretary ROBESON has returned from Annapolis. Secretary FISH is expected here to-morrow. Secretary BELKNAP leaves for West Point. It is understood that a Cabinet meeting will be held next week, on Friday, and the President will be here a few days about that time.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

CUSTOMS DECISION.

The act of March 3, 1867, provides that upon all merchandise gaugeable by law, withdrawn from a bonded warehouse for export, there shall be levied and collected by the Collectors of the several ports, ten cents per cask. A brisk trade has sprung up in the way of importing refined petroleum in casks from Canada, which pass through to New-York in sealed cars for importation to Europe. This oil is not gauged either at the frontier port or at New-York, but is shipped immediately from the cars to the importing vessels carrying it to Europe. There have lately been several importations of this article, upon which the Collector at New-York exacted a fee of ten cents per cask of ten gallons each, under the above-mentioned law. The Department has decided that such fee was not legally exacted under the circumstances, and ordered the refunding of the money, where it had been paid under protest.

THE MARINE CORPS.

The question as to who will be appointed Commandant of the Marine Corps at the Washington Navy-yard, on the retirement of the present commandant, is being discussed among the officers of the corps, and rumor has it, that Capt. G. W. COLLIER, the present commanding officer at the Navy-yard, will succeed him.

KUKLUX.

The KUKLUX Investigating Committee today examined Deputy United States Marshal JOSEPH J. HESTER, of North Carolina, S. T. FOSTER, United States Commissioner at Spartanburg, South Carolina, and CHAS. D. O'KEEFE, who was formerly a tax collector in the latter State, and was driven from the discharge of his official duties, as it is alleged, by an unlawful combination. Ex-Gov. PARSONS, of Alabama, will be examined to-morrow.

CITY INTERNAL TAX.

In response to an inquiry concerning the liability of cities to tax on currency issued by corporations, Commissioner PLEASONTON states he does not feel warranted in holding such cities liable; but calls attention to the fact that there is a tax of ten per cent. on banking associations paying out the notes of any city.

BONDS TO BE DESTROYED.

CHARLES NEALY, W. D. WILSON and J. W. WHEELEY, of the Treasury Department, have been appointed a Committee to count and destroy over $60,000,000 worth of bonds purchased for the sinking fund.

NEEDY PATRIOTS.

Gov. COOKE has received over 1,000 applications for the 136 offices at his disposal in the City of Washington.

NEW-YORK CUSTOM-HOUSE APPOINTMENTS.

The following appointments in the New-York Collector's Office have been confirmed by Secretary Boutwell:

W. L. Judd and E. A. Bluis, inspectors in the Appraiser's office; A. M. Sherwood and Samuel Bowne, examiners; E. B. Mates, clerk and weigher; John F. Wall, examiner and weigher; John McCauley and Charles L. Crawford, openers and packers.

No Public School in the Third Ward.

In the Third Ward there was never more than a single public school. The house is a dingy, faded structure, with the blinds closed in the upper stories and the panes shattered in the basement windows. Our reporter yesterday rang the bell at the weather-beaten door, and rang it repeatedly, but no answer was given. No children's voices were heard, and no admonishing school-mistress. It was like a haunted school-house.

In despair, the reporter finally inquired of the proprietor of a beer-beer saloon in the next house as to the cause of the strange silence, and by him he was informed that the school had been broken up on account of the proposed widening of the street; that is, instead of being removed elsewhere, the children were scattered, the teachers dismissed, and the Third Ward forced to do without a public school. What it once had was merely a matter of history—a thing of the past.

The reporter's informant grew more and more indignant as he proceeded, and before he had finished he was joined by a butcher from the next house, by a grocer from the corner, and a shoe-maker from over the way, and all joined in a chorus of indignation. Everybody in the Ward appeared similarly affected. There was rage enough over the destruction of their school to have raised a revolution. If they wanted their children to go to school at all, they one and all exclaimed they would now have to send them either to the school in Greenwich-street, that long way down toward the Battery and past all the concert saloons and rum-shops of that neighborhood, or to the school in North Moore-street, which is a very considerable distance up-town, and even after it is reached may be too full to admit any more. And, moreover, what is to be done with the young ones in Winter? Time and more they said, and they talked strongly of presenting a petition for the re-establishment of their school.

The reason assigned by the Board of Education for their proceeding was said to be the paucity of the Ward's population.

EXPERT BANK SWINDLE.

Raising Genuine Checks—Attempt to Defraud a Firm of $9,000—The American Exchange Bank Caught in the Snare.

For the past week or so a number of raised checks have been in the market, whereby some of our prominent bankers have been taken in to the time of several thousands of dollars. The more recent attempts have been made upon Messrs. STRONG, GOULD & CO., of Exchange-place, and the American Exchange Bank, in order to get at the true particulars and the perpetrator of these frauds, the writer made various inquiries at certain quarters, and finally succeeded in ascertaining that a man named or assuming the name of J. K. BARNARD had succeeded in opening a banking account with Messrs. Parrington & Co., of Philadelphia. He then commenced drawing a number of small checks from that firm upon their correspondents, Messrs. STRONG, GOULD & CO., of this City, and having in his possession these genuine checks, came to New-York, and in a day or two was established in a pleasant office in the TIMES Building, having rented what is termed "desk-room" there at a rental of $100 per annum, paying a month's rent in advance.

He at once set about altering or "raising" the checks in question; that is, by means of an acid took out the original body of the drafts and substituted much larger sums, for instance, he altered one check from $89 45 to $1,900 45. This check or order was then given to a boy he had engaged, with a request to get it cashed at Messrs. STRONG'S, and said if any questions were asked by those gentlemen, he should say he was employed by Mr. THOMAS BROWN, whose office was in the TIMES Building. On the order being presented, one of the clerks had his attention drawn to the handwriting in the middle of the check, it not being written by the clerk who invariably drew the orders of Messrs. Parrington, but at once recognised the signatures as being genuine. He accordingly questioned the boy, who admitted he had been engaged but a few hours before by BROWN, alias BARNARD, off the street, and it was then evident that a fraud was being practiced upon them. The boy told where the office was, and subsequently went there in company with the Board of Brokers' detective, SAMPSON. This officer found the boy's statement correct; but BROWN had gone, and has not since returned. It is supposed that BROWN followed the boy to the bank, and finding he was detained longer than he anticipated, suspected that the fraud had been discovered, and made good his escape. The same man by the same means defrauded the American Exchange Bank out of nearly $1,900, by altering two checks with acid, and filling them up with larger amounts. Detective SAMPSON will have the working up of the case, and it is thought that more will eventually be heard of Mr. BARNARD, alias BROWN.

Bible Revisions.

In these days, when the subject of Bible revision is attracting the deepest attention, especially in England, where the dignitaries of the Established Church have taken the subject in hand, and where it has been made the topic of discussion in Parliament, it may be proper to say that since the year 1820 the American Bible Union, whose head-quarters are in this City, has expended many thousands of dollars in the collection of a superb library, and done other work connected with a new translation of the sacred volume. This great project is under the direction of Dr. THOMAS J. CONANT, one of the most profound scholars in this country, aided by men of the highest erudition abroad, who have been selected without reference to their particular religious associations, but solely with regard to competency and a sincere desire to present the truest and best version in the English tongue such as is possible, and which the philological researches of the time have made practicable.

The Gillespie Affray—Presentation to Patrolman Levey.

Yesterday a meeting was held of the trustees of the Riot Relief Fund, at which LEONARD JEROME, ISAAC BELL, SHEPPARD KNAPP, Jr., and WM. H. VANDERBILT were present. The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the brave and noble conduct of Patrolman WM. W. LEROY, of Ninth Precinct, on the 4th of June last, in the arrest of an armed disturber of the public peace, at the risk of great peril to his life, commands the respect and commendation of the trustees of the Riot Relief Fund, and as the sense of their high appreciation of his fearless discharge of duty, it is hereby ordered that the sum of $1,000 be paid to him from that fund.

The resolution was embodied in a general order by Superintendent KELSO and will be read to all the members of the force today. The injured patrolman is improving, and strong hopes are entertained of his speedy recovery.

Serious Affrays.

JOHN F. LADUE, of No. 80 New-Chambers-street, last evening assaulted his wife, MARY L. LADUE, stabbing her in the neck and arms, inflicting serious wounds. He was arrested and locked up in the Fourth Precinct Station-house. The wounded woman was taken to the Park Hospital.

DANIEL FOLEY, of No. 21 Cherry-street, also assaulted his wife last evening, at their residence, beating her in the most savage manner, and breaking her arm in two places. He was arrested and locked up in the Fourth Precinct Station-house.

MARY CANFIELD and ELIZA HOGAN quarreled on the night of the 1st inst., at No. 7 Baxter-street, and during the fracas MARY was stabbed in the head by ELIZA, receiving a dangerous wound. The affair was kept from the knowledge of the Police until last evening, when Capt. KENNEDY hearing of it, arrested the assailant, who was locked up in the Sixth Precinct Station-house. The injured woman was taken to Park Hospital.

FERDINAND WERNBACH, of No. 209 Bowery, last evening was in the saloon No. 10 Spring-street acting in a very disorderly manner, when some one struck him on the head with a chair, inflicting a serious wound. He was then arrested and locked up in the Tenth Precinct Station-house.

The Williamsburg Cowhiding Case Again.

Mr. FREDERICK A. BURROWS, the victim of Miss EMMA MOSER'S vengeance, was yesterday convicted, before Justice VOORHIES, of using threatening and abusive language toward Mr. IRA H. RICHMOND. He gave bonds for his future good behavior. Miss MOSER has been released from the County Jail through the piteous appeals of the kind-hearted lady who has charge of the female prisoners there.

Suicide of an Old New-York Merchant.

AUGUST BUSCH, a once prosperous New-York merchant, committed suicide, on Tuesday night, at the Rommeney House, Williamsburg, by taking a large quantity of arsenic. Mr. BUSCH was a native of Germany, about fifty years of age. Loss of fortune so preyed upon his mind that he sought quiet in the grave.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

NEW-YORK.

Those who have the management of our Park grounds make a great mistake in cutting the grass as soon as it gets two or three inches high. This practice not only kills the grass, but prevents the roots from growing and injures the appearance of the grounds. The grass should be suffered to attain its full growth and blossom before cutting, then we get the fragrance in the air and the hay made from the grass is of value; and cut at its full growth another growth will start, and the grass will thicken and not become all scorched and dry as our Parks will otherwise soon become under the hot Summer sun.

After a hot, sultry morning, the clouds, yesterday afternoon, began to loom up in the West, and for several hours their close dampness added to the general discomfort; but at about 5, the first precursor of the storm came in a sharp shower, and an hour later the tempest had fairly set in. Throughout the City and down the Bay the rain descended in torrents, and in many cases the clouds sank so low as to cover the masts of the vessels. At midnight the storm was still raging, and there is every reason to think that it will satisfy all who have been wishing for rain, before it finishes.

Yesterday, Mayor HALL called Mr. BERGH'S attention (the TIMES had already done so) to the brutal act of Park Policeman JOHN WALSH, No. 84, in striking one eye of a little urchin, and afterward kicking the poor creature down the sewer near Madison-avenue Park, on Saturday last. Mr. BERGH had the fellow arrested and taken before Justice FOWLER, who dismissed the case, admitting at the same time that it was clearly proven that WALSH had committed the act. Justice FOWLER said that the next time WALSH went for a cat he might make sure and complete his work.

In pursuance of Adjt.-Gen. TOWNSEND'S order of May 31, the examination of breech-loading rifles from which one is to be selected for the use of the National Guard of the State of New-York was begun yesterday at the State Arsenal. The following arms were submitted: Patent Wolstenholm gun, Brown gun, Jenkyn gun, Remington gun, Ward Burton gun, Peabody gun, Conroy gun, Sarnaker gun, Berdan gun, Whitney gun and Kentucky rifle. Gens. TOWNSEND, McQUADE and JOHNSON will make the test of these arms today.

A grand banquet was given, last evening, in the Abyssinian Baptist Church, (colored,) in Waverley-place, for the benefit of the Sunday-school attached to the church. Notwithstanding the inclement weather, the spirits of the participants were not dampened, and the occasion proved a most pleasant one. Brief remarks were made by Rev. W. STRATTON, pastor of the church, and others, and a handsome sum was netted for the worthy object for which the banquet was inaugurated.

Hon. HORACE GREELEY has returned from his trip to Texas, and the members of the Republican General Committee propose extending to him a public welcome. The reception will take place next Monday evening in front of the Lincoln Club Rooms on Union-square. A platform will be erected, and addresses will be delivered by Mr. GREELEY and others. The entertainment will also consist of music and fireworks.

Before the New-York Society of Practical Engineers, last evening, at Cooper Institute, Dr. ADOLPH ENTERED into a scientific exposition of the component parts of artificial stones and cements, giving it as his opinion that the vast improvements lately made in producing such stones and cements would shortly work a revolution in the construction of buildings and pavements.
